W. G. ROSS, of Los Angeles, a real estate dealer, kills himself with poison, to "see if dead men return." He will learn that they don't return, or if they do, they don't know it. The best thing a man can do, especially in Los Angeles, is to live as long as he possibly can, see all he can, learn all he can.

HERE'S HOPE for the hopeless, the victims of hay fever. Mr. Coolidge, who has a "rose cold," sits for forty-five minutes in an airtight room, breathing in air mixed with chlorine gas. He leaves saying, "The trouble is gone."

Chlorine gas cures colds in men and epizootic in horses. Why should it not cure, or at least relieve, hay fever, that tortures thousands for weeks every year?

ANOTHER MAN, aged 100, died yesterday. Merely living to be 100 years old doesn't amount to much; it all depends on what you ARE when you reach 100, or 90, or whatever the age may be of which you boast.

Women will be interested in one particular centenarian living in England. Her name is Mrs Haldane, of Cloan, and she is the mother of Lord Haldane, British statesman of power. This is what the solemn old Athenaeum says about her:

"It is not the splendor of her years alone which makes the record of Mrs. Haldane of Cloan remarkable. She has entered on her hundredth year this week with a mental and even, physical vitality that must be almost unexampled. I asked Lord Haldane recently how his mother was bearing her great age.

"She is wonderful," he said. "She reads German, French, Italian, Latin and Greek without spectacles."

"SHE READS German, French, Italian, Latin and Greek." This means that she has used the brain that now keeps her going. There is no old age for women of that kind. Human beings and trees die at the top.

HARRY L. HOFFMANN is accused of a brutal murder. His wife sits in court, helping his lawyer to select jurors that are to decide his fate. Reporters describe her sitting in the shadow, picking out the men, approved, with a nod of her head, after one quick glance.

It is likely that the wife of the accused man can see farther into the juror's mind with one quick glance and see more of what is in there than would be seen by all the lawyers and other men in the courtroom put together.

One hundred thousand years ago, sitting at the entrance to her cave, woman learned how to judge men quickly with one look, and she knows.

THE Senate Committee of Agriculture rejected the Ford bid for Muscle Shoals yesterday by 10 to 6. That isn't final, but it shows how difficult it is to get anything through in Washington sometimes. It isn't quite so difficult if there is "a little black bag," with the right kind of lining in the offing.

MORE attacks on Jews in Hungary, and pogroms in Transylvania. In Buda-Pest while a professor was lecturing on anatomy, some of the students demanded that four Jewish students "be killed on the spot to furnish material for dissection." Part of the complaint was that they rarely had opportunity to dissect Jewish corpses, due to the fact that the Jews bury their dead and do not let them go to Potter's Field or the dissecting table.

IN TRANSYLVANIA twelve Jews are said to have been killed recently, one victim, a woman, being "drenched with petroleum and burned to death before the eyes of her son prior

BARBOUR'S NOTES TO GIRL READ AT COAKLEY TRIAL

$30,000 IN PAINTINGS STOLEN

Isaac's Art Loft in Court St. Robbed of Valuable Pictures by Connoisseurs

Boston was introduced to a new underworld cult today when Abraham Isaacs, a collector, reported the theft of $30,000 worth of oil paintings, portraits and sketches from his loft at No. 47 Court street.

No common garden variety of burglar or second-story man was concerned in the theft, according to Isaacs and the police.

For only the choicest and most valuable of the vast collection accumulated in twenty-five years by Isaacs were stolen.

Connoisseurs of art not four shot in their efforts to gain entrance to the Isaacs storeroom were these new thieves of the underworld intelligentsia—they used a jimmy to the door when they might have effected easy entrance by slipping a business card in through the door jack, the police say.

VALUABLE LOOT

Included in the loot removed from the building which is not more than fifty yards from the City Hall avenue police station, were the following paintings:

"The Sunset," by Watterman, estimated value $1,000; portrait in oil of Viscount Polworth, by Richard Cosway of the Royal Academy, $2,500; "Oriental Courtyard," by Bridgeman, $5,000; "Cavalry Charging Sioux," by Lamb, $2,500; "Boardman Farm," by J. Foxcroft Cole, $1,000; "Venice at Evening," by F. Hill Smith, $700; "Cardinal Villa Desta," by A. Ciss, $500; "Leader of the Hounds," by Lamb, $1,500; "The Fisherman," Abbot Graves, $750; "Grand Dame," by R. Swain Gifford, $500; "Court Scene," by Daubigny, $1,500, a landscape by Rousseau; "Rocks of Nahant," by William Bradford, $1,000. Several others were removed.

The thieves worked with consummate skill. Only those who knew how to do it could have stripped the

Twelve Hurt in Auto Accident in Walpole After Farewell Party

A "farewell party" to Miss May Walsh, of Aberdeen avenue, Cambridge, ended early today with the deaths of two members of the party and serious injuries to twelve others.

One of two automobiles speeding them back to Boston from Lake Archer, Wrentham, crashed into a truck on the Boston post road between Walpole and Wrentham.

The other dove over a high embankment into a swamp. Both drivers are under arrest, charged with manslaughter.

The dead:

ALBERT J. HUGHES, twenty-eight, No. 8 Hill street, Charlestown.

MISS JULIA O'CONNELL, twenty-five, No. 39 Pemberton ton street, Cambridge.

The injured, at Norwood Hospital, are:

MISS MARY MAHONEY, No. 167 Beacon street, Boston.

SCENE OF FATAL CRASH AT WALPOLE

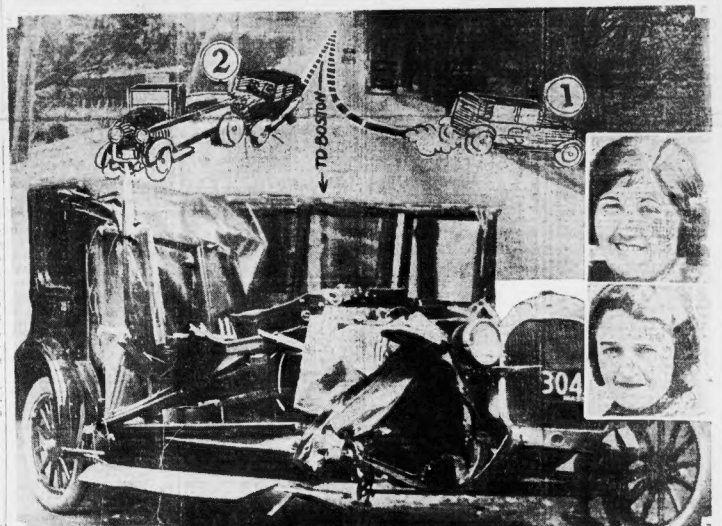

DIAGRAM SHOWS HOW THE THREE AUTOS CAUSED DEATH

Car No. 1, driven by Joseph Mahoney, sighted the truck, which was standing without lights, too late to do anything but swerve. The machine whirled and dove over a steep bank into a swamp. Car No. 2, driven by Joseph Hefron, was following closely and did not see the truck until too late, plunging into it. The wreck of this auto is shown in the picture. Insets, above, Julia O'Connell, killed, and Anna O'Brien, injured.

'PETTER' IS BERATED IN LETTERS

"Deceived Trustful Woman," May Daly Wrote; Called Conduct "Cowardly, Damnable"

Edmund D. Barbour, eighty-two-year-old china importer, used the name "Aggie" in writing to Miss May A. Daly, whom he said he "petted" in his State street office, afterwards paying Daniel H. Coakley $387.-041.48 as a result of the "petting."

Letters written by the octogenarian to Miss Daly and by Miss Daly to Barbour were read to the jury today in Middlesex superior court, where Coakley and William J. Corcoran are on trial for alleged conspiracy.

"For years you have deceived a trustful woman," Miss Daly wrote in one letter in 1918, in which she threatened to "tell."

This letter declared that Barbour had "misused" her and wished to toss her aside "like an old shoe for your married friends."

The letter, produced by Coakley and admitted by Barbour to have been received by him from Miss Daly, was addressed to "E. D. Barbour." The salutation was "Dear Sir." The letter reads:

"For these days I have thought and thought about your outrageous treatment of me at your home. Such

SOX MAKE DRIVE TO GET TOP POSITION

By NICK FLATLEY.

First place is only half a game away from the clutching hands of the victory-mad Red Sox. The Lee Fohls can perch on the American League pinnacle this evening if they flay the Tigers in the final game of the series at the Fenway, and the Yankees drop their pastime to the Cleveland Indians. The natives are quite likely to smack the Bengals once more, having done that little thing three times running now.

Incidentally, they are off on a new winning streak, having five victories piled up since they dropped a game to the White Sox. The Red Sox are playing baseball, and consequently getting the breaks. They pulled the most recent Tiger game out of the fire in a brilliant rally, after they should have been licked. Nothing daunts them these days.

Should they win, and the Yanks

2 SISTERS DIE IN SUICIDE PACT

Lying on a bed, fully clothed and facing each other, their hands clasped in death, the bodies of two sisters, Miss Abbie N. Burke, fifty-seven, and Mrs. Nora Fuller, fifty-nine, were found today by police officers in their apartment at No. 20 Park avenue, Somerville.

A gas tube suspended from a lighting bracket overhead, its end lying on a pillow between the faces of two sisters, told the story of suicide by gas.

Miss Mabel Smiley, who lives on the floor above the apartment of the sisters, smelled gas this morning. She called to Fred Stevens, who notified the police. Patrolmen Cameron, Fitzpatrick and McNamara broke down the door to the apartment on the first floor.

Dr. G. W. Bryant was called. He pronounced both women dead.

Furniture in the apartment was

COAKLEY CHARGES CONSPIRACY BY WATCH AND WARD SOCIETY

'BACKED BY GODFREY L. CABOT'

treatment as I scarcely believed any man would give to any woman. To those whom you have misused as you did me when I was a mere child and whom for seven long years you have used for your purposes, your conduct was cowardly and damnable.

"I am to be cast aside like an old shoe for your 'married friends.' You said so. I must forget because of that. I shall never visit you again, until you apologize and request it. I demand that you write me at once and finally let me know whether you are to keep your promise repeated again and again.

"For three years, at your request, our promise was suspended because, as you told me, of your ill health. I believed you when you told me it was your health, as I believed you when you told me about what you have told me. Now I think you were false and that it was your married friends who caused you to deceive me. I am to be sacrificed for them. Never! This shall not be!

"I want you to tell me the truth. I have a right to know. You shall tell me. For years you have deceived a trusting woman. You shall not further deceive me.

DEMANDED HIS PLANS

"I will wait three days for your letter. If I do not get it, I will feel that there is no honesty in you and will act. If you have any manhood in you, which after Thursday night, I doubt, you will frankly tell me your plans.

"No more letters. No more deceit. No more stories of ill health. You will keep your promise and write me at once. After three days I shall try to get justice and vindication from this malevolent world.

"Yours in great grief,

Signed) "MAY A. DALY"

After this letter was read Mr. Coakley resumed his questioning of Mr. Barbour.

Q.—Didn't you tell me that the said you met to marry her.

A.—No. Never a promise nor suggestion. I wanted peace and was willing to settle to get it.

The witness added "I can't see how she can regard it as a violation of a promise as to her."

Coakley then introduced the following letter:

Aug. 4, 1916.

Dear Mr. Coakley:—

"Confidential: Please give the following suggestion your consideration. Now hundred and thirty shares American Telephone and Telegraph costing $130 total cost, $16,900 in front, paying 8 per cent. dividends quarterly or $1040 per annum, payment to the beneficiary of $1000 a year for life and $40 a year to a trust company for expenses.

"If the beneficiary lives fifty years she will have received $50,000. The fund not to be attachable nor subject to her husband's control, and may be disposed of by will.

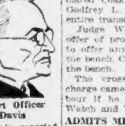
"The beneficiary to propose not to call on or write to the donor and not to say anything to disturb his peace of mind or injure him in any way or those known to be his friends."

The witness admitted he wrote the letter.

Coakley then asked the witness: The last phrase refers to your married friends? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Did you tell me that she was

Prosecutor Reading



Court Officer Davis

bothering you and certain married friends of yours—married women?

A.—No.

Q.—You wanted to settle her claims against you?

A.—I wanted peace.

Q.—Well, you wanted to settle.

A.—Yes—as a step toward peace.

Q.—You wrote me to that effect?

A.—I can't remember.

Q.—After March 18—tha is after you settled on the $75,000 transaction up to the time of the letter of July 31—did you see me at all? A.—No—no discussion either in a professional or friendly way.

Q.—Well, we didn't have any other than professional relations, did not?

A.—No.

Mr. Coakley showed the witness a letter. Witness Barbour identified the handwriting as his. He read the letter as follows:

April 7, 1916.

"Dear Mr. Coakley:—Please drop me a line. Don't telephone my office. Name a time which is convenient for you to see me. I will only keep you one minute. It is nothing important.

Yours truly,

EDMUND D. BARBOUR."

Mr. Coakley continued:

Q.—Have you any idea what that conference was to be about?

A.—I think it was in reference to paying you $25,000.

DECIDED ON $25,000.

Q.—And you didn't call that important?

A.—Well, on April 7 I made up my mind to meet your call for $25,000 and so it lost its importance as a matter for discussion.

At this point Mr. Coakley had the witness consult his memorandum book where Barbour found mention of a payment made on April 8 and he admitted that the letter could not be referred to the bill for $25,000.

Q.—I get the impression from what you testified yesterday that you came to me and said: "Here is $25,000, do anything you think best."

A.—I didn't mean to give that impression. I meant to say "I went with implicit confidence to Mr. Coakley, having heard of him as a man in whose hands you could place yourself."

Another letter written by Barbour to Miss Daly was dated June 24, 1916. It follows:

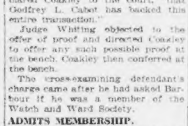
"Dear May: No one has said anything against you. I consider you a good girl and hope that you will remain so. His last letter got cold any more, for reasons which I know you will appreciate, if you can understand.

"I have nothing but the kindest feelings for you. My health is fair. You have always my best wishes.

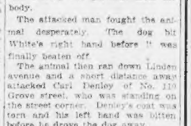
Yours truly,

"Aggie."

A conversation again between



Sheriff Adams



E. D. Barbour

Watch and Ward Society was charged by Coakley, during his cross-examination.

Coakley and William J. Corcoran are on trial before Judge Whiting and a jury on conspiracy charges.

"We are prepared to show," declared Coakley to the court, "that Godfrey L. Cabot has backed this entire transaction."

Judge Whiting objected to the offer of proof and directed Coakley to offer any such possible proof at the bench. Coakley then conferred at the bench.

The cross-examining defendant's charges came after he had asked Barbour if he was a member of the Watch and Ward Society.

ADMITS MEMBERSHIP.

"Yes, and twenty other societies," answered the octogenarian, who had testified that he paid Coakley $367, $41.48, after "petting" Miss Daly, an attractive brunette, in Barbour's office at No. 53 State street.

District Attorney Arthur K. Reading objected on the ground that the question was irrelevant. Judge Whiting said he did not believe it had a bearing on the case.

"Then the court does not know what the defense will be," Coakley returned.

"I naturally do not at this time," replied Judge Whiting.

"Then I wish to announce that this is a conspiracy on the part of the Watch and Ward Society against me. We are prepared to show that Godfrey L. Cabot has backed this entire transaction."

"I do not care to have offer of proof made in this manner," admonished Judge Whiting. "If you have offer of proof kindly come to the bench."

A forty-five-minute conference between Judge Whiting, District Attorney Reading and defendants and counsel delayed the opening of today's session.

CROWDED COURTROOM.

Following the conference Judge Whiting soon admonished the jurors against reading newspaper accounts and headlines of proceedings at the trial.

A crowded courtroom, in which many prominent barristers and politicians were recognized, listened intently. Scores stood outside, unable to squeeze in.

paved for moving and it was learned that a Boston charitable organization had located a new abode for the sisters. They were to have moved today.

Miss Hicks was an attendant at the Women's Educational Society. Her sister, Mrs. Nora Fuller, widow of George Fuller, who died suddenly in Boston last fall, while being moved from Boston, where he was taken suddenly ill to his home, in Petersham, Mass., kept house. Both sisters lived in style, until the death of Mr. Fuller and then they continued their same mode of living until their income money, friends say, got very low. They had paid their rent and had given their notice that they were to vacate the Trinity Episcopal Church, having secured a furnished room for them.

The sisters were to furnish the room while the rest of the furniture was to be placed in storage.

Friends say, they decided to end it all rather than go to live in the furnished room.

MAD DOG BITES TWO MEN IN MELROSE

Two Melrose men were attacked and bitten by a dog believed to be mad, and police are searching throughout the city in an effort to run down the animal.

The dog was crouching on the porch of the home of Daniel J. White at No. 175 Linwood avenue, Melrose, when Mr. White endeavored to enter the house. The animal leaped at his throat, fastening its teeth in the collar of White's coat and tearing the garment from his body.

The attacked man fought the animal desperately. The dog bit White's right hand before it was finally beaten off.

The animal then ran down Linden avenue and a short distance away attacked Carl Denley of No. 121 Grove street, who was standing on the street corner. Denley's coat was torn and his left hand was bitten before he drove the dog away.

SLAYER IN LOVE WAR GETS 5-7 YEAR TERM

Pasquale Vannelli, who was scheduled for trial today for murder in the first degree in having fatally shot Michael Profidio at the North End, pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to the state prison to from five to seven years by Judge Bishop. The tragedy arose out of attentions paid by both men to a young woman, who finally preferred Vannelli. Profidio was once shot by Joseph Simboli, who met his death at the hands of friends of a man whose murder Simboli and other members of a Black Hand gang were acquitted.

All but the Walsh sisters were allowed to go home after being treated. The injured at Massachusetts General Hospital, to where they were driven in a Boston American delivery truck, are:

JOHN V. FLAHERTY, No. 14 Alston street, Charlestown, at Massachusetts General Hospital.

L. RILEY

Name is on the danger list.

Under arrest on a manslaughter charge are Joseph Hefron and Joseph Mahoney, the latter of No. 167 Beacon street.

Joseph Mahoney

Both are held at the Walpole police station, where Hefron was taken after his broken arm was set at the hospital.

The two automobiles filled with merrymakers, were rolling over the seven miles of the Walpole section, road between Wrentham and Walpole, near the Walpole duck farm.

A truck, declared to have no lights, was parked, disabled, beside the road in the darkness.

Mahoney, driving the first car, sighted the truck too late to do anything but swerve sharply. The car whirled and dove over a high embankment, pinning Inis a wreck.

The second car, driven by Hefron, and following the first closely, could not swerve in time. This car crashed into the truck, striking the occupants of the machine into the road.

Both Miss O'Connell and Albert T. Hughes, the dead, were riding in the car. Miss O'Connell was secretary to Claim Agent H. A. Ives of the New Haven Railroad.

Julia O'Connell died at a State School in Wrentham, not far from the scene of the accident. Hughes died at the hospital.

Hughes, a World War veteran, was a clerk employed at the Boston Fish Pier. He was a member of Bunker Hill Council, K. of C.

A number of those in the party were Knights of Columbus members. Hefron is a K. of C. basketball star. The party left last night from Bunker Hill Council, K. of C., Charlestown, for Lake Archer. One of the Walsh sisters is about to leave for Honolulu, and a farewell party was given her in the Mahoney camp at the lake.

Mahoney's car bore a Florida registration, No. C93,298. Hefron's was Massachusetts No. 204,701 and the truck was B19,641.

In Hefron's car, a sedan, were Julia O'Connell, Albert Hughes, John Flaherty, Marion Sumner, Ted McCarthy. In Mahoney's car were Oscar Anderson, Anna O'Brien, Mary Walsh, Florence Walsh, Marr Mahoney, Anna McSweeney and Helen McSweeney of Cambridge.

Building Wrecker Dies

Worcester, May 22—Samuel L. Howard, president and treasurer of the S. L. Howard Company, building wreckers, died at his residence, No. 2 Harvard street, as the direct result of the falling of the massive brick wall of the old Cadwell building, which caused the death of three men.

Police Catch Cop in Store, But He Was Only Fixing a Lock

Not that they're in the same category, but that old saw, "Set a thief to catch a thief," has been dressed up to read, "Set a cop to catch a cop."

Neighbors in Perkins street, East Somerville, banded themselves with their telephones early today when they heard strange noises in Peterson's store at No. 155.

In due time the patrol came chugging into Perkins street and four policemen tumbled to the pavement and surrounded the store. The strange noises were still audible.

The police captured the maker of the noises. He was Patrolman Augustine F. Sharry, and he was nailing boards together to make a "Dutch lock" for Peterson's door, which had been left unlocked.

The capture is not looked upon as important.

canvases from their frames without the use of keen-edged instruments.

ISAACS HEARTBROKEN.

The frames were knocked down. Then the mouldings were cleverly removed until the canvases or stretchers were exposed. The paintings were delicately stripped from the stretchers rolled up for the getaway.

Constable Michael A. Twomey, whose office adjoins the Isaacs loft discovered the break. He called Isaacs at his home, No. 37 Intervale street.

Isaacs was heart-broken over the loss of his collection. For more than a score of years he has traveled far and wide, purchasing choice bits. Rarely has he sold a painting.

"I lived for them and among them," he told the police.

Isaacs is in the real estate business with an office in Pemberton square.

When Inspector Joseph Cavanaro and Patrolman McGillicuddy interviewed the collector he told them he believed that New York art thieves were connected with the burglary.

GOVERNOR APPROVES "BUDDY" POPPY DAY

The "Buddy" Poppy campaign to be conducted throughout the State Saturday by the Massachusetts department Veterans of Foreign Wars to aid disabled veterans, has been endorsed by Governor Channing H. Cox in a letter sent to Brigadier-General John H. Dunn. In his letter the Governor said that the fact that the poppies to be sold are made by disabled veterans will bring added interest and support to a movement which the Governor believes will enlist the community and a generous response.

LEGISLATORS FAVOR PROBE OF BANKING

The Legislative Committee on Highways and Motor Vehicles, in executive session, today voted to report in favor of a measure providing for an investigation of automobile parking by the special commission which is to be created to investigate the question of new boulevards and traffic routes. Warren E. Locke of Newton appeared before the committee in favor of the measure, the construction of a parking area under the Common and Public Gardens.

LEEDS, UNFROCKED PASTOR, WEDS GIRL IN LOVE TRIANGLE

DIVORCED LESS THAN A WEEK

Marriage Follows the Strange "Spiritual Love" of Rector for Youthful Secretary

New Haven, May 22.—Frederick Leeds, former rector of the fashionable Grace Episcopal Church of New Haven, whose "sexless passion" for Miss Ellen E. Reid, a former parishioner, led to his unfrocking and divorce, has taken Miss Reid as his bride.

Less than a week from the time the court dissolved the ties that bound the former cleric to his first wife, the woman named in one of the strangest love triangles in New England annals has confessed her continued love for her "spiritual mate" by becoming his wife.

MARRIED BY JUSTICE.

Leeds and the woman twenty years his junior, who served as his secretary while he was still a dignitary of the Episcopal Church, were married at the home of the bride in Fairhaven by a justice of the peace.

The former rector of the ex-clergyman was granted a divorce from Leeds on the grounds of improper conduct of Mr. Reid and her husband.

The unusual love affair of the minister and his former parishioner came to light almost three years ago when the couple were arrested in a Boston hotel. They had been at the hotel for two days, registered as man and wife, and the rudding parts which found them was led by the minister's wife.

"SPIRITUAL LOVE."

The case was carried into Municipal Court. The minister, in defense of his action, declared that his was a spiritual love, for the young woman.

"Anthony threw away a kingdom for Cleopatra and Dante wrote immortal verses for Beatrice. I, too, have two love in such a way for Miss Reid," he declared, after the court sentenced him and the young woman to six months' probation.

Miss Reid, following her conviction in court, declared there was no illegal motive to her registering as the bride as the wife of Leeds.

"It was quite in accord with the sincerity of our feelings, and with our willingness to face the world," she declared.

"The fact that we registered as man and wife was just a trivial compromise with conventions. We wanted to talk together and we needed a room where we would be alone. That is all."

WIFE RELENTS

It was on the plea of his former wife that the ex-clergyman escaped a jail sentence. On the stand she testified that in her belief her husband had been punished enough.

Following his release, Leeds was unfrocked as a clergyman and went to work as an insurance agent in New York city. His wife finally instituted divorce proceedings and the Connecticut court appointed a special investigator to probe the wife's charges.

The probation period of the Boston court was fixed at six months. The terms of the probation provided that the clergyman could not see Miss Reid during the period of probation. When Leeds appeared in court to be discharged, the probation officer reported that both he and Miss Reid had violated the terms of probation by being together in the same house during that time. The probation was continued for six months.

PLATONIC RELATIONS.

Throughout the court action and the attendant publicity, the clergyman insisted that his relations with his former secretary had been purely platonic.

"My love for Ellen Reid is a spiritual love, passing the understanding of the world," he declared. "It is a religious love, an expression of the loftiest Christianity. It is the will of God. It does not depend upon the clasp of a hand or the pressure of a lip. It is disembodied, deathless and does not depend upon the love of sex."

Miss Reid also declared that she was guiltless.

"My love for Mr. Leeds is as sacred as a prayer," she said. "He is my spiritual friend and guide—the embodiment of my salvation in this world and the next."

SISTERS AT CEREMONY.

When the Connecticut courts finally freed the former minister from his first wife, arrangements for his marriage with Miss Reid were quickly completed.

Joseph C. McGovern, a justice of the peace, was secured to perform the ceremony. In attendance at the marriage ceremony were the four married sisters of Miss Reid and her two brothers, while her father, Alexander Reid, gave her away.

The former wife of the minister refused to make any statement when told of the marriage.

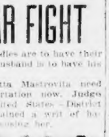
MOTHER TO LIVE IN U. S. AFTER 9-YEAR FIGHT

Two little Ribdles are to have their mother and a husband is to have his wife.

Mrs. Antonetta Mastrovita need not fear deportation now. Judge Lowell in United States District Court has sustained a writ of habeas corpus releasing her.

Salvatore Mastrovita



Antonetta Mastrovita

"Action on this case should have been taken four years ago. Nine years have passed since this case came up and after five years no action can be taken," was Judge Lowell's statement.

Mrs. Mastrovita came to America in 1915 and was ordered deported as a feeble-minded person. She followed closely on the order for her deportation and she was released on parole to relatives in Worcester. There she married Salvatore Mastrovita and there were two children. The two children are American citizens and this argument was used in obtaining the writ of habeas corpus for Mrs. Mastrovita.

The mother will now return with her two children to Worcester where she will join her husband.

"Robinson Crusoe's" Flintlock Brings $1,250 at Sale

London, May 22.—"Robinson Crusoe's" old flintlock musket, believed to be the authentic weapon carried by Alexander Selkirk during his four-year exile on Juan Fernandez Island, which inspired Defoe's celebrated story, was sold at auction yesterday for $1,250.

The gun bears in rough carving the inscription: "Alexander Selkirk, Largo, 1701." Largo, Fifeshire, was Selkirk's birthplace.

FILIBUSTER HERE DIES QUICKLY

Hennessey, Dem., Attempts in Vain to Hold Floor of State Senate

A Democratic filibuster, launched in the State Senate today, died in its infancy.

The sudden death revealed that Senate filibusters in Massachusetts are vain endeavors and can be killed at will by the Senate President.

Only two Democratic Senators of a total of five Democrats were present when the filibuster started. Although one aided by telephoning the remaining three, he later denounced the move as "disgraceful and lamentable."

Soon after the session opened Senator William I. Hennessey, Democrat, Dorchester, took the floor and announced he and other Democrats would hold it.

He said the Democrats disliked hasty methods of the Republicans in pushing legislation through without regard to Democratic wishes. He doubted presence of a quorum, but a rollcall ordered by President Frank G. Allen showed a quorum present.

Senator Hennessey carried out his threat to doubt quorums, but on the fourth rollcall he left the floor and the filibuster died without a struggle, after only half an hour of life.

Senator John H. Gibbs of Waltham, following the rollcall, was recognized and given the floor by President Allen. The Senator then moved that the matter be placed at the end of the calendar.

Senator Melody, who had been telephoning other Democratic Senators, offered an amendment, stating that the filibuster was "disgraceful, lamentable and initiated without any knowledge on the part of the other Democrats."

He declared, however, that it was justified in some regard because of the treatment accorded to Democrats by the Republicans.

The motion was carried as put by Senator Gibbs, however, and the filibuster was dead.

BIG WELCOME FOR FLIERS IN JAPAN

Kasumigaura, Japan, May 22 (A.P.).—This was a notable day for the American round-the-world aviators. Within fifteen hours they drove down out of the bleak, windy north Pacific region, where storms and fogs have hampered their progress for days, into a temperate clime where they probably can make up some of the lost time.

They made the first landing American airmen have made in Japan and they did two days' tasks in one.

LAND AT MINATO.

Taking off from the icy waters of Hitokappu Bay, off Yetorofu Island, in the Kuriles, at 3 a. m., the aviators scooped down over Kushiro, on the island of Hokkaido, four hours and fifty minutes later.

They circled once over the American destroyer John D. Ford, on duty there in case the fliers needed aid, and went on without landing to Minato, at the northern end of the island of Hondo, on which Tokio is located. They landed at Minato, 534 miles from Hitokappu Bay, at 10:40 a. m.

At 12:30 p. m. they took the air again for the 350-mile hop to Kasumigaura, where they arrived at 3:30 p. m., fifty miles from Tokio.

NATIVES THRILLED.

Originally it had been planned that the jump from Yetorofu Island to the main island of Japan and the further hop to Kasumigaura should occupy successive days, but yesterday Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, commanding the flight, changed his plans.

On the way here the Americans gave the population of Kushiro, already thrilled by the visit of the destroyer Ford, the first foreign warcraft ever to enter that fishing town's harbor, their first sight of an American airplane, and to most of them the first view of any aircraft whatever.

Crowds numbering thousands lined the hills above the town and gathered in open spaces to watch the planes pass over.

TEACHER SUSPENDED ON AUTO CHARGES

Westfield, May 22.—Mrs. Lucy Mosher, teacher of the Fox District School here, who was fined on four counts in district court in Springfield on charges of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and drunkenness, was relieved of her teaching duties today by order of the school department pending outcome of her case.

Pleas of not guilty were entered to both charges and counsel for Mrs. Mosher asked for a continuance down 1 to allow time to find a material witness, alleged to have been companion of Mrs. Mosher.

Chief of Police M. A. Belmont of West Springfield, who filed the complaints, said that this witness had left town.

SLIPS SHOW BIG BANK LOANS

Former Treasurer of Cosmopolitan Trust Still on the Stand in Mitchell Case

The fourth day of the trial of Max Mitchell in Suffolk County Court, charged with larceny and fraudulently conveying and converting to his own use funds to the now defunct Cosmopolitan Trust Company, brought more evidence in the form of credit slips, deposit slips and bank books.

George M. Rich, former treasurer of the trust company, was still on the stand.

Evidence was introduced showing that the Newburyport Theatre, Inc., obtained a loan of $120,000 on August 20, 1920. John C. Bills, Jr., signed the note. As soon as this note was introduced, a deposit slip for $120,000 made by Mitchell on the same day was offered. It developed that this deposit was in the form of a check on the Cosmopolitan Trust Co.

During that same day it was claimed $124,021.84 was paid out of Mitchell's account; two items accounting for $122,811.00 of the amount. At the end of the bank day Mitchell's account was overdrawn $3,376.16.

Credit slips and records of payments on certain loans made to Ida Mitchell were then introduced. These slips show that on August 20, 1920, she paid back to the Cosmopolitan a total of $122,811.00. The amount due was larger, but she was allowed a rebate of $220 for paying ahead of time.

The case continued with Mr. Rich still on the stand.

RADCLIFFE AWAITS ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Radcliffe Junior Class entertained the Radcliffe senior class at luncheon today in the living room of Agassiz House.

Harriet Verxa.

Ruth Ayres.

The rest of the college waits eagerly for the event to be over so that they, too, may know which girls of the two upper classes have become engaged and kept it a secret until this day.

For it is a tradition at Radcliffe that at the Junior-Senior luncheon all engaged girls must march around the floor preceding the bridal procession to Wedding March, sung and played by the uncengaged. There is no keeping of secrets after that.

Miss Ruth Ayres as president of the junior class will be the hostess at the affair, whose president is Miss Harriet Verxa. Miss Rosamond Esty, '25, of Brookline, heads the committee in charge of all arrangements for the luncheon.

SMITH'S SIMPLE LIFE SURPRISES HUNGARY

Budapest, May 22.—Jeremiah Smith of Boston, League of Nations commissioner for Hungary, is doing his best to carry out reforms in economy during Hungary's reconstruction period by giving up an apartment in the wing of a first class hotel overlooking the Danube and moving to a bedroom on the top floor.

The government, thinking even the best room in the hotel unsuited for Hungary's general commissioner, was prepared to furnish a desirable part of the royal palace for Smith and now is a bit embarrassed by his decision to live simply.

Best Babes in Towns, Not Country, Says British Doctor

London, May 22.—Towns and not the country are the places to find the healthiest children, according to Dr. T. H. Corkery, school medical officer, in a report to the Devon Education Committee.

"The rural child," he writes, "has lost its heritage to the child bred in the cities. Formerly one pictured the country child with a chubby face, pink cheeks, bright eyes and sturdy figure. Now you find many of the children in country schools are pale-faced, anaemic looking."

ESCAPES 2 MEN IN AUTO, WOMAN FOUND DAZED

The Lexington police today found a woman wandering on Maple street. She gave her name as Mrs. Bessie McCauley, No. 220 Broadway, Cambridge.

Her story was of attending a party in Cambridge at which liquor was passed around. While there she met two men and when she started for home they offered to drive her in an auto. The ride wound up in Lexington.

Repulsing advances of the men, she sustained bruises about the arms and scratches on both hands, finally escaping. She could not recall the names of the men. Her husband, William McCauley, took her home.

MIKE IS HER NAME; AND SHE ISN'T A HIM

New York, May 22.—Mike Glick, thirty-two, of Prospect street, Jamaica, is sure she is a woman and equally positive that her first name is "Mike." Patrolman Bressel gave her a summons for having an unmuzzled dog, and asked for her name.

"Mike Glick," she replied.

"I don't want your husband's name, madam. Give me your own," the policeman explained.

Mrs. Glick insisted Mike has been her name ever since she was born.

"You're the first female Mike I've ever come across," Magistrate Koebendorfer said. "You are fined $10."

100,000 GALLONS OF BEER RUN IN SEWERS

Chicago, May 22.—Gevsers of real beer spurting five feet through manhole in sewers in the vicinity of the Manhattan Brewery furnished the basis for police investigation of advance warning of a contemplated raid.

More than 100,000 gallons of beer was drained from brewing vats. Chemical analysts showed a high alcoholic content, officers said. The finding of a "little black book" seized when the Sieben Brewery was raided Monday exposed a secret liquor running ring, according to Federal agents.

CONVICTED JUROR MAY GET 20 YEARS

New York, May 22.—Charles W. Beddies today faces a possible term of twenty years in Sing Sing prison as a result of his conviction by a jury of perjury in connection with statements he made regarding his qualification as a juror in the Edward M. Fuller bucket shop case. Beddies was sent back to the Tombs to await sentence Monday. He was indicted for swearing that he did not know William J. Fuller, Fuller or W. Frank McGee when questioned as a prospective juror in the first Fuller-McGee trial last year which ended in a disagreement.

terest during the past few days, principally because of the frank admissions of Lang as to his relations with Mrs. Galbraith.

He testified to visits to Mrs. Galbraith's home, of trips to New York and Portland, Me., and of nights in her company.

On one occasion, Lang testified, he and Mrs. Galbraith "loved and loved" with frequent refreshments of whiskey "from 5 in the evening until 7:30 the next morning."

Lang was arrested and brought to Boston from Reno, Nev., where he sought a divorce from his wife that he might marry Mrs. Galbraith. Mrs. Galbraith, it was testified, made him many presents of cash and clothing.

The case went to the jury at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in Superior Court.

RICH ROXBURY WIDOW MUST PAY WIFE

MRS. LANG (LEFT) AND MRS. GALBRAITH

A Suffolk County Superior Court jury awarded $10,000 damages to Mrs. Lang today in the suit for $50,000 brought by Mrs. Catherine Lang of Roxbury against Mrs. Edna E. Galbraith of Roxbury for the alienation of the affections of Gerhardt William Lang, husband of the plaintiff.

BAR BOOZE REUNIONS OF PRINCETON GRADS

Trenton, N. J., May 22.—Keg parties and other festivities that have played such a gala part in the class reunions at Princeton University commencements are to be no more, sixty of the "old grads" today heard a plea for the abolition of all booze at the alumni reunions next month. This follows unanimous action by various alumni gatherings, representing all graduating classes from 1890 to date.

ATTEMPTS DEATH BY POISON

Mrs. Johnson, Who Interfered in Row of Men, Didn't Want to Disgrace the Children

Mrs. Ruth Johnson, summoned to Roxbury court today as a witness, created a commotion in the corridors when she attempted to drink iodine.

Court Officer Higgins dashed the bottle from the woman's lips and sent her to the City Hospital. Mrs. Johnson lives at 133 Sterling street.

The woman was called in the case of James Harvey of 547 Columbus avenue, charged with assault and battery upon John Butts of 78 Hammond street. Butts alleges that Harvey attempted to "carve" him. Mrs. Johnson interfered to save Butts, it is asserted.

She told Probation Officer Higgins today that she didn't want to appear in court because of the "disgraceful case her children." Harvey's case was continued.

HIGH WINDS FORCE NEW DIRIGIBLE BACK

Lakehurst, N. J., May 22.—The non-rigid dirigible J-3 took the air shortly after noon for a cruise to Philadelphia and return today, but returned to its hangar fifty-two minutes after it had started because high winds loosened an air scoop used in filling one of two air chambers inside the balloon.

Cochranes Desert North Shore for Summer in Paris, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

MR. AND MRS. A. LYNDE COCHRANE will be missed along the North Shore this season. They have taken a house just outside Paris, where they plan to spend the Summer.

Mrs. Cochrane, who is a young matron of considerable charm and vivacity, possesses a lovely voice and is frequently heard at various charity functions. Last year she played the role of dashing "Princess Sonia," the heroine of "Rush and Wrangle," the Vincent Club production.

In the Fall Mrs. Cochrane and her young family sailed for the Riviera to spend the Winter at Mentone. Mr. Cochrane joining them later, I believe. The Cochranes, for a number of years, have spent much of their time at Hamilton.

OTHER Bostonians who have passed the Winter at Mentone are Mr. and Mrs. William Amory Parker (Elise Ames). Mrs. Parker has been in delicate health for some time.

Mrs. W. A. Parker (Photo by Bachrach)

Apropos of Mrs. Parker, her brother, Richard Ames, is continuing his musical studies in Paris, where he plans to remain for a year or so. He is studying principally piano and composition.

Mr. Ames belongs to the Harvard '19 class, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ames of Commonwealth avenue, North Easton and Pride's Crossing.

AMONG the folk moving down to their homes along the North Shore this week are Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks H. Whitman of Beacon street. Their place is at North Beverly.

Mrs. H. H. Whitman

Mrs. Whitman, by the way, wrote the Vincent show "Rush and Wrangle," mentioned above. This former Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor is a leading member of the Shore summer colony as she is of the younger-married set in town during the Winter.

The Whitmans are much to the fore in the jolly senior supper dance crowd and Mrs. Whitman, who is tall and slender, is known as one of the most smartly gowned matrons of bar set.

MR. AND MRS. RUSSELL S. CODMAN of Marlboro street are expected to arrive this week-end from Italy. They have enjoyed a delightful tour of the Italian lakes, lingering also for some time in the French capital.

Mr. and Mrs. Codman's summer place at Manchester is located in the South Point section.

Society Notes

THE wedding of Miss Elizabeth T. Russell and Charles K. Cummings Jr. will take place on June 21, in Milton.

Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson will arrive at White Sulphur Springs from Washington on Saturday. After their stay at the West Virginia resort they will come to "Weld," their Brookline estate.

Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott has returned to Newport following a visit to Portsmouth, N. H.

Zachary T. Hollingsworth will again spend the Summer at Beverly Farms, where he has taken "Pump Cottage," the Wilkins place.

After a season of travel abroad, Mr. and Mrs. Washington H. Thomas are established in their Summer place at Pride's Crossing.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic R. Gallace of Mt. Vernon street are planning to open their Ipswich estate next week.

WORLD COURT AN ISSUE IN CAMPAIGN

Senate Committee Resumes Consideration of Four Plans Proposed

Washington, May 22 (I.N.S.).—American participation in the Permanent Court of International Justice will be placed before the public as an issue in the coming Presidential campaign, it was indicated today by members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which resumed consideration of four conflicting proposals for joining the tribunal.

Republican "irreconcilable" members of the committee reached a tentative agreement with Democratic League of Nations advocates to report to the Senate "some proposal" for American entry. The "irreconcilables," however, were divided over the best method, a few following the leadership of Senator Lodge, who proposed a brand new court entirely separate from the League.

Other "irreconcilables," headed by Senator Wadsworth of New York, favored a compromise plan by which the United States could enter the existing court under reservations entirely divorcing it from the League. This plan, drafted by Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania, with the aid of other committee members, was the most favored.

Democratic members favored any or all of the plans in the hope of bringing the proposal itself before the Senate and the public.

"There is no effort being made to delay consideration of the World Court proposal," said Senator Wadsworth today. "Republican members of the committee have sought to evolve a scheme to make the court acceptable to all who oppose it in its present form.

"If successful the plan would lead to American participation in a tribunal that would be a real world court in fact as well as in name.

"It would be impossible to dispose of such an important international question in the next two weeks or to get a vote on it in the Senate," said Senator Lodge. "But I do sincerely hope to get the committee to report some proposal on the whole matter can be placed before the American people."

WOMAN ADMITS SHE'S NOT WIFE OF SHOE MAN

Arrested With Him in Auto on Drunk Charge, at First Said She Was Mrs. Chandler

Salisbury, May 22.—While his wife was attending a club meeting Frank A. Chandler, prominent Haverhill shoe manufacturer, was taken into custody here charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

With him at the time was a woman giving her name as Mrs. Chandler who was booked on a drunk charge.

Under examination, the young woman in the car admitted she was not the wife of the shoe man. Police withheld her name. She is a member of a respectable Haverhill family.

Chandler's arrest was the result of erratic driving. He bumped two motorcyclists from the rear while proceeding along the Amesbury road.

A half pint bottle of gin was found in the car, the police said. He was released in $500 bail for hearing Saturday.

Outing and Sport Hats

FRIDAY

An assortment of 4300 hats, including practically every style, color and color combination desirable in hats of this type.

We have never been able to find out how many hats we could sell in one day at one of these sales because we have never had enough to last through one day's selling. This year we made extraordinary preparations and we think we have enough hats for two days, but we can't guarantee it. Naturally those who come the first day get the choice of the complete assortment.

All we can say as to styles and colors is that the variety is so great that we believe it includes everything desirable that we have found in this type of hat in qualities that are usually priced $5.50 to $8.50

WIFE OF TENOR SOBS AND TELLS OF CRUELTY

Mrs. Sidone Steel Says He Drove Her Away to Follow His Own Bent

New York, May 22. — Marriage versus a career! Again the question comes to the fore, this time in the suit for separation against John Steel, the tenor. His wife charges neglect and abandonment.

Mrs. Sidone B. Steel, herself of the theatre, testified at the trial before Justice Davis in the Supreme Court, white-faced and shaking, of her great love for her husband and his alleged abuse and misconduct. She spoke almost inaudibly, sobbing into a handkerchief.

"He said so often to me that marriage interfered with his career, he had no use for me, he wanted to live the life of a bachelor. He told me time and again that home life tied him down. His work and disposition required that he be allowed to come and go as he chose without being responsible to anyone. That in itself hurt, for I loved him."

TELLS OF ABUSE.

She told how "the burden of her presence" prompted him to maltreat her in order to force her to leave him. Each incident she brought up caused fresh tears. At the counsel table sat Mr. Steel, and it was only the incessant tapping of his foot that betrayed the fact he was not as composed as he appeared to be. Mrs. Steel continued:

"One time in 1920, after we were married about a year, he came home intoxicated and told me to pack up and get out—which I did. That same night he rang me up and begged me to come back. I was so happy. But he soon began his cruelty again.

"I left him once again. It was after he had told me he desired the companionship of other women and had friendly with several. That too, he called me back, and I for the sake of the child that coming to us."

$10 A DAY FOR LIFE FOR MISS NESBIT

Thaw Makes Agreement and Declares He Will Go to Money-Making

New York, May 22—His whole future life course was hopefully mapped out by Harry K. Thaw, at a law office here, before leaving for his Pittsburgh home. He created a fund of $10 a day for life for Evelyn Nesbit, his former wife.

The stroke of the pen accomplished the decision having been made. Thaw leaned back in a chair in the office of Attorney Abraham H. Hoodon and announced his intent to settle permanently in Pittsburgh and devote the rest of his days to money-making.

Evelyn Nesbit, at Atlantic City, broke up when she heard of the proposed settlement, and after she had sobbed down, revolted the possibility of accepting so small an income as $10 daily, and waxed more indignant when she learned no provision had been made for her son.

There's a notice before New York courts was finally cleared when in the court of Judge Owen of General Sessions. Thaw was admitted $500 bail on a conspiracy charge discovered in court records after court hours the preceding day. Thaw is already under $10,000 on two other indictments.

Leads Rum Raid

MRS. HANNAH BRIGHAM

New England's only woman prohibition agent, who caused arrest of two near-beer saloon proprietors in Blackstone.

WOMAN LEADS LIQUOR RAID 3 ARRESTED

Blackstone, May 22—Mrs. Hannah Brigham of Worcester, New England's only woman prohibition agent led six State troopers with drawn revolvers in a spectacular liquor raid on a near beer saloon on Canal street.

The seizure of liquor in the saloon resulted in the arrests of John Fitzgerald and Edward S. Maloney, proprietors of the establishment, and their attorney, John S. Derhan of Uxbridge.

Fitzgerald and Maloney were charged with violation of the Federal liquor laws.

Attorney Derhan's arrest resulted from an altercation alleged to have taken place between himself and the officers after the raid, when he attempted to secure the release of his clients on bail.

Shortly after his release on bail Attorney Derhan swore out a warrant for the arrest of Federal Agent Augustus L. Lacava on a charge of assault and battery. The warrant will be served today.

The seizure at the saloon consisted of eighteen barrels of beer, a case of soda, and quantities of sugar and malt. These were removed to Worcester.

The charge against Derhan a trespassing, although police say they will bring an additional charge of interfering with officers against him. Too three men will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin S. Crandall in Worcester, May 27. Derhan was released on $5 bail, while Fitzgerald and Maloney were freed on $500 bail each.

BUDGET CUT ADOPTED BY FRENCH CABINET

Paris, May 22 (I. N. S.) — The French Cabinet today adopted a program of drastic economy reducing the budget 4,000,000 francs. President Millerand presided at the meeting. The President already has the pledge of Edouard Herriot, who will probably be the next Premier, that he will continue a policy of economy.

$1,015,292 FOR BUDGET ASKED BY GOVERNOR

Needed to Cover Expenses Provided in New Legislation; Urges Economy

Supplementary budget recommendations amounting to $1,012,292.41, exclusive those for the Metropolitan district, were made by Governor Cox in a message to the Legislature today. This sum, the Governor stated, include amounts made necessary by new legislation and make allowance of $254,002.80 for legislation now pending and for additional departmental requests. He also urged more stringent economy.

"To provide for appropriations already made," he said, "and to cover the items contained in this budget, a State tax of $10,000,000 will be required in addition to the ordinary revenues of the Commonwealth.

"Since the additional departmental requests and the total of special appropriations called for in measures still pending greatly exceed $254,002.80 reserved herein for such purposes, it is evident that all those measures which do not meet the test of absolute necessity must be defeated, or it will be impossible to hold the State tax at the desired figure of $10,000,000.

"I renew the recommendation in my original budget that Section 7 of Chapter 29 of the General Laws be amended so that approval of the Governor and Council must be obtained before any expense be incurred by departments for preliminary plans and estimates of buildings for which appropriations are to be asked.

The Governor recommended that the term of bonds for additional sewers in the North Metropolitan sewerage district be for ten years.

ASKS HUGE SIREN TO FRIGHTEN STARLINGS

West Hartford, Ct., May 22.—Discouraged at the return of hundreds of starlings after attempts to rid the town of the birds had failed, H. W. Irving has asked the town council to install a huge electric siren in the trees on his property to frighten his winged tormentors away. Two years ago Town Manager Benjamin Miller headed a posse of a dozen men armed with shotguns and about 1,000 starlings were slain. The birds come in increasing numbers each year, however. They do great damage by eating young green crops.

BRYAN ON HAND TO LEAD FIGHT ON 'HERESY'

Serves Notice He Will Support Fundamentalist for Presbyterian Moderator

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 22 (I.N.S.).—His normally benevolent features grimly set, William Jennings Bryan, lay fundamentalist, reached here today to lead the war on supposed heresy in the Presbyterian Church when its 136th general assembly opens.

Refusing a compromise offered by leaders of the moderate conservatives, the militant churchman served notice that he intends to nominate and support Dr. Clarence E. Macartney, Philadelphia fundamentalist, for the moderatorship.

Coincident with Mr. Bryan's entrance into the situation it became known that the fundamentalists, not satisfied with their war on Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick and Professor Charles P. Fagnani, of Union Theological Seminary, have four other leading clergymen of their faith marked for censure and possible expulsion from the church.

These ministers, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, former U. S. minister to Holland; Dr. William P. Merrill of Brick Church and Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin of Madison Avenue Church, New York, and Dr. L. Mason Clarke of First Church, Brooklyn, will be attacked on the assembly floor for alleged "dismal utterances."

Demands that they be disciplined by their presbyteries or directly by the assembly are contemplated by their orthodox foes.

SEES GREATER SPEED FOR MAURETANIA

Cherbourg, France, May 22.—The Cunard liner Mauretania, which was sent here last month for repairs because of the shipyard strike at Southampton, left here today for her home port, her repairs completed.

Captain Bostrom said the work done on the Mauretania's engines would enable her to make her former speed again and probably better it.

JUROR IN DEATH CASE KIDNAPED, HE DECLARES

Taken on Motor Tour and Strapped and Gagged, He Tells Police

Pittsburgh, May 22.—Paul F. Quinn, a Pittsburgh advertising salesman, wanted here for City Hall today and told the police that he had been kidnaped after serving on a jury in Pittsburgh that had returned a first degree murder verdict. He said he had been taken on a motor tour over the State for five men for the last five days until he escaped near this city.

Quinn added that the kidnaping occurred last Saturday after he had served on the jury which convicted a man on trial for murder in connection with an attempted jail break at the Western penitentiary.

His captors, he asserted, bound his hands with a strap and gagged him whenever the car had to pass through towns. "You'll return no more murder verdicts against anybody," Quinn said they told him.

Quinn said that once a State policeman passed on a motorcycle, but his attempted yells for help were muffled by his captors. Last night, Quinn stated, a blowout tire on the car caused the men to leave him alone for an instant and he escaped.

Pittsburgh, May 22.—Paul Quinn's fantastic story of his abduction that he had been acting strangely. "His imagination very often runs away with him. He has told unlikely stories before and I cannot believe this present one."

PRESIDENT HOARSE IN 5 MINUTE SPEECH

Washington, May 22.—Effects of the cold for which President Coolidge has twice taken the gas treatment were evident today in his five-minute speech before the National Recreation Conference. The President's voice broke twice and became hoarse as he proceeded. At one point he was compelled to pause and cough.

VOLCANO'S FIRE PIT WIDENED BY QUAKES

Hilo, T. H., May 22 (A.P.).—The active crater or fire pit of the volcano Kilauea has changed its appearance. Three days and nights of [illegible] diminished 30 acres to an opening twenty-five feet across and a hundred long. Yesterday the pit was enlarged to practically its former dimensions, three thousand to two thousand feet, by the new material falling into the volcano.

U. S. LIQUOR TREATY WITH SWEDEN SIGNED

Washington, May 22.—A liquor treaty with Sweden similar to those already negotiated with Great Britain and Germany was signed at the State Department today by Secretary Hughes and P. V. G. Axelsson, counsellor of the Swedish Legation.

Secretary Hughes and the British Ambassador, Sir Esmé Howard, Monday formally exchanged ratifications of the liquor treaty with Great Britain, concluding the process by putting the pact into operation.

JAP PIRATES HAUL DOWN AMERICAN FLAG

Manila, May 22 (A.P.).—The American flag flying at a village on the island of Babuyan was hauled down and a Japanese flag hoisted in its place by pirates said to be Japanese, who promptly raided the village, according to a report brought by the crew of the yacht Apo, on which Governor General Wood has just cruised to Babuyan and Batanes Islands.

According to the crew, the Filipino villagers pulled down the alien banner and replaced the American one when the pirates had departed.

"DAPPER DAN" LEAVES FIANCE ON SATURDAY

Havre, France, May 21 (A.P.).—"Dapper Dan" Collins, alias Arthur Hussey, alias Arthur Tourbillon, wanted in New York as a fugitive from justice, may sail for the United States on the liner Savoia on Saturday.

"Dapper Dan" was brought here from Paris and lodged in jail, pending the arrival of detectives from New York.

AMERICAN IS KILLED BY CHINESE BANDITS

Shanghai, May 22 (I.N.S.).—An American named Wiseman is dead at Shasi, 400 miles from Shanghai, he is said, according to information from Fao Chow today.

Dennison was accompanied by a Briton and three Chinese when the attack was made. The American was wounded and captured, but escaped and made his way to Shasi [illegible], where he was reported to have died.

MISSING SAILOR DEAD, FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED

New York, May 22 (I.N.S.).—Suspecting foul play, officers of the Brooklyn Navy Yard began an investigation today into the death of P. Blackstone, a United States sailor, whose mutilated body was found floating in the navy yard.

Blackstone, missing from the destroyer Barry since January 24 last, had been classed as a deserter. A rope was tied around the neck. The right ear had been slashed.

DUBLIN LORD MAYOR REFUSES TO RESIGN

Dublin, May 21—Lord Mayor O'Neill declares he intends to hold on to his office, despite the reported action of the Dublin corporation in the Free State government. He was elected by the people of Dublin for three years, and will only resign by virtue of them.

The Lord Mayor admitted that President Cosgrave had offered him the chairmanship of the Commission. Three named to take over the functions of the corporation, all said that, as his colleagues had been superseded, he could not accept.

After Mr. Thurston's performance there will be community singing and a band concert by the Quincy Boy Scout Band.

FRENCH WAR-RUINED LAND LOSS IS CUT

Paris, May 22.—Not more than 25,000 acres of former arable land will have to be definitely abandoned in the war-swept district of the Somme, according to an official report made today.

The original estimate was that nearly 75,000 acres would have to be abandoned. Only one village, Thiepval, will not be rebuilt. Owners of the abandoned land will be compensated by the government.

ELECT MILLER A BISHOP ON 4TH BALLOT

Methodists Name Californian, Who Will Probably Be Sent to Mexico City

Springfield, Mass., May 22.—George A. Miller of South America was elected bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church by the general conference here today on the fourth ballot. He received 576 votes, with 551 necessary for election. The Rev. Titus Lowe of Nebraska was second with 542, and the Rev. George R. Grose, president of DePauw University, Indiana, was third, with 494.

It was said that Bishop-elect Miller would probably be sent to the residence at Mexico City. He was born in Mendon, Ills., in 1868, and was graduated from Leland Stanford University in 1895, having been ordained a pastor in 1896.

For the last six months Dr. Miller has been superintendent of the Central American mission and his home is in Panama City, Panama. His wife is Margaret Ross Miller of California. The couple have one daughter.

President John Hillman of Simpson College, Indianola, Ia., chairman of the Standing committee on education at the Methodist General conference, submitted a recommendation for a substantial increase in the apportionment for schools and colleges.

Maintenance expenditures of Methodist schools and colleges now exceed the dependable income of about $2,500,000 annually and the conference has recently added the theological schools to the list. The committee seeks to have the deficit made good and to have enough money each year to carry the added burden of the theological schools.

Retired ministers of the church drawing an annuity may serve as supply pastors and draw salaries, according to a decision of the judiciary committee. Objections have been made in some of the churches to permitting retired ministers to preach and draw salaries. The committee finds that ministers on the retired list have a right to preach and the church discipline book makes it imperative that the churches pay for services of pastors.

Church Sunday school publications will hereafter bear the imprint of Fundamentalism, in accordance with resolutions adopted by the conference instructing the editorial staff to observe all diligence in eliminating expressions which disturb the spiritual sensibilities of our people.

With 544 votes necessary for choice, Rev. Titus Lowe of Nebraska received 475, Rev. George A. Miller of South America, 463, and Rev. Ralph A. Ward of Foochow, China, 458.

"No Smoking" Sign In Church Ignored by Women

Many women who patronize a tea room at Park and Tremont streets, apparently don't believe in signs.

A printed notice appears on every menu card to the effect that smoking is prohibited, per order of the Rev. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of the Park street church, and landlord of the tea room.

Despite this fact, many women who patronize the establishment do not hesitate to smoke there.

R. I. HOSPITALS AND SCHOOLS MAY CLOSE

Providence, May 22.—Guards at the Rhode Island State Prison are giving up their jobs, State investigators are crippled, and the Rhode Island State College is preparing to close its doors as a result of the filibuster that is deadlocking the State Legislature.

Without funds with which to pay State employees, all branches of the State government are reported to be on the verge of collapse.

John E. Bolan, commissioner of public works, addressing the Providence League of Women Voters, declared that the situation which confronts Rhode Island is of the utmost gravity.

At the State Hospital, the lack of funds brought about by Democratic filibuster and the refusal of the Republican majority to pass emergency relief measure, has resulted in much of the help leaving their berths.

"Nurses who normally take care of 20 patients are now forced to look after three times that many" declared Mr. Bolan in his address, "while in the State infirmary patients are in want of food and children are receiving inadequate care in various State institutions."

Trustees of the Rhode Island State College are in session today to determine whether or not the institution will continue to function without finances. There are 401 students in the college.

PARKED AUTO RUNS WILD IN SOUTH BOSTON

Tears Down Hill Across Perkins Square and Crashes Into Music Store

Slipping of brakes of a parked automobile on Broadway, South Boston, did damage to the extent of $2,000 when it crashed into a plate glass window in Perkins square. John J. Sullivan of No. 14 Ocean street, Dorchester, owner of the car, told the police of the Athens street station that he parked his sedan car outside No. 489 Broadway and went into a house to visit. The brakes, in some unknown manner, became released and the automobile rolled down the steep grade, gathering speed. It went across Perkins square at a fast clip, through the heavy traffic, barely missing other autos, tore a sign post from the sidewalk and crashed into the plate glass windows of Charbone Bros.' music store. Four Victrolas and three costly radio sets that were in the window were totally destroyed and the car was badly damaged.

We Gorge, But Are Shy on Mineral Foods, Says Doctor

Kirksville, Mo., May 22 — "Americans are guilty of two great dietary sins," Dr. G. V. Webster of Carthage declared here today at the national convention of osteopaths.

"They eat too much, and they do not eat enough of foods rich in mineral bases," he added.

Dr. Webster laid the blame for this omission of a balanced diet to the manufacturer who refines foods too much and to the housewife who throws away the coarser parts to please the eye and tongue.

WOMAN ASKS ELWELL DEATH INQUIRY

Mrs. Lewisohn Says She Has New Clews Warranting Reopening of Murder Probe

New York, May 22 (By Universal) —The Elwell murder case—safely interred, so everybody thought, in the musty archives of the New York police department—suffered a reversed spasm of life today and crawled back into public notice.

This resurrection was brought about by Bernard H. Sandler, an attorney, who announced that he had been making private investigation into the murder of the international ally celebrated bridge expert, and that evidence had been uncovered which would probably bring the slayer to justice.

Viola Kraus.

These investigations, he said, had been made on request of Mrs. Walter Lewisohn, who was acting in behalf of her sister, Viola Kraus, a friend of Elwell who was closely questioned by the police at the time of the murder in 1920.

IN PRIVATE PROBE.

Sandler didn't discuss the motive of his client or her sister.

After declaring that the evidence would point to a man—one now at large who was suspected four years ago but had established an apparent "alibi"—he said that upon the return of Mrs. Lewisohn and Miss Kraus from abroad the results of their private researches would be turned over to the district attorney with a request that the case be reopened.

Mrs. Lewisohn sailed to join her sister, now in Paris today. It was when Sandler went to bid his client farewell at the French Line pier that the first intimations of the recrudescence of the celebrated elwell mystery was given. Mrs. Lewisohn would say nothing. But later in the day Sandler talked readily.

ELIMINATES WOMAN

In disposing of the once popularly regarded theory that a woman—probably animated by jealousy of the glamorous card expert's attentions to other women—had killed Elwell, Sandler pointed to circumstances which he considered would make that unlikely.

Elwell was shot once through the forehead by a 45-caliber automatic pistol. This, he pointed, is a heavy and bulky firearm and not the sort a woman could conveniently conceal about her person. Moreover a gun of that calibre has a heavy recoil and a woman would hardly choose it.

Then again the pistol was fired from a distance of at least six feet away from the victim's head which would indicate that the slayer was one practised in its use.

District-Attorney Banton, when asked about the matter, said he had not been approached by either Sandler or his client.

The names of the Lewisohns and Miss Kraus came into the case not only because Miss Kraus and Elwell were friends, but because they attended a dinner party given by Mrs. Lewisohn at the Ritz-Carlton the night before the murder in honor of the divorce decree granted that day to Miss Kraus from Victor von Schlegell.

Mrs. Lewisohn's husband, who was a wealthy broker, was placed in a sanitarium at Greenwich, Ct., last May. A commission investigating his case last week declared him insane and unfit to manage his estate.

Real Stenographers Hard to Get and Hard to Hold

New York, May 22—Good stenographers—the kind who do not chew gum, powder noses and hold telephone conversations with cake-eaters on office time—are hard to get and hard to keep.

This conclusion was reached today by the American Employment Exchange after an analysis of conditions.

While business conditions are getting slacker "the demand for female stenographic help has shown an increase over April, 1923.

Male bookkeepers are more in demand than the female. Salaries offered office boys declined 10 per cent. during the year and so is still hard to find, the report said.

Seven Robberies in 24 Hours Breaks New York Records

New York, May 22. — More crime was experienced here in the past twenty-four hours than in any other similar period in several months, according to the police record.

The first occurence was a hold-up in which one of two bandits was killed by a policeman. The last was when four ticket officers of the elevated and subway transportation lines were robbed almost simultaneously.

Two other robberies occurred. Axel Johnson and Albert Lake, two payroll guards, were shot and $2,700 taken from them in Brooklyn. The other hold-up was by a girl, who entered a store, held up the owner with two guns and rubbed him of $60.

TESTS PROVE SUCCESS OF NEW SET

The new six-tube set which the Boston American will explain how to build, beginning tomorrow, is a Superheterodyne.

We are going to call it the Baby Giant Superheterodyne. The "Baby" is because it fits into a layout 16½ inches long, by eight inches wide, by four inches high, and because it works on UV199 tubes using three dry cells for filament supply.

The "Giant" is because it has a whale of a kick.

The new set has been carefully tested out by members of the Boston American staff before it was decided to present it to the public.

The first tests gave poor results, which proved later to be due to a defective condenser, which did not prevent reception, but which made for poor results.

REPORT OF TESTS.

Boston American readers will have an unbiased report of the subsequent tests with correct apparatus.

The first of these tests were held at the laboratories of a prominent radio engineer. Samuel Curtis, formerly chief operator at WNAC, represented the Boston American and A. S. Moffat represented the Como Apparatus Company, in whose laboratories the set was developed.

The set was compared with two commercially built Superheterodyne receivers, both of six tubes. The first Superheterodyne was found to be very broad in tuning in the result of a dozen or more harmonics. Harmonics are present in every Superheterodyne, but there should not be too many. With the loop only the local stations and Springfield came in, as it appeared to be a poor radio night.

SUPERIOR SET.

The second Superheterodyne was much better, bringing in WEAF and WJZ on a loop, and being very selective. This set is built to sell around $400.

The Baby Giant Superheterodyne, with 14 feet of antenna, performed about the same as the No. 2 Superheterodyne, and in the opinion of those present was far superior to No. 1.

The second test was held at the Copley Plaza Hotel. Samuel Curtis, U. A. Stevens of the Boston American, and A. S. Moffat were among those present. Here again the Baby Giant proved the equal of the No. 2 Superheterodyne (another model was used and gave slightly more volume, using a five-foot length of wire on the floor as against the loop of the No. 2 type).

The third test was made at the home of George A. Schaefer in Newton, who has had wide experience with Superheterodynes. Mr. Schaefer, A. H. Hoag, radio editor of the American, and Mr. Moffat were present.

NOT FOR SPEAKER

This test proved that the Baby Giant is not by itself designed for loud speaker reception. Using head phones, WBAR was easily separated from WTAT, WEAN from WNAC and eight stations were brought in within twelve degrees of the dial in one case. Only the local stations gave loud speaker reception.

With a two stage audio amplifier, however, all the stations which came in on the head phones were heard clearly.

Independent experiments by Mr. Curtis in Braintree showed that no interests or points of interference by the local or semi-local stations, that code interference is minimized by the sharpness of tuning that a short aerial will bring to the more distant stations to the limit allowed by static and the other factors which affect any sensitive set.

During the entire series of tests no really distant station was brought in, but this was because of the two conditions for this work, as shown by the performance of the other superheterodynes, which are regarded as in the top class of sets.

ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR SOMEONE

AWARD FOR BETTER CIRCUIT

This check is yours if you can design a better circuit than the Baby Giant Superheterodyne, which the Boston American will begin a description of tomorrow. The decision will rest with a committee of three, one appointed by the Boston American, one by the Como Apparatus Company and one by these two appointees. The description of how to build the Baby Giant Superheterodyne will be given in detail in these pages.

$1,000 FOR THE DESIGN OF NEW SET

One thousand dollars is yours if you can design a better circuit than that used in the Baby Giant Superheterodyne that is to be described by the Boston American beginning tomorrow.

The reward is offered by the Como Apparatus Company, in whose laboratories the set was designed.

A check for the sum has been made out with the space for the name of the payee left blank. The check is now held in the bank on which it is drawn.

Following are the conditions on which it will be awarded:

CONDITIONS OF AWARD.

1. The committee with which the decision shall rest shall be composed of three recognized radio engineers, one to be appointed by the Boston American, one to be appointed by the Como Apparatus Company, and the third to be selected by these two.

2. The sum shall be paid for a radio receiving circuit which in the unanimous opinion of these three engineers shall be better than the circuit known as the Superheterodyne.

3. The circuit shall not require more tubes or current consumption than the receiver to be known as the Baby Giant Superheterodyne, which uses UV199 tubes.

4. The circuit must be superior in sensitivity, selectivity and volume.

CIRCUIT ORIGINAL.

5. The circuit must be original and become the property of the Como Apparatus Company upon payment of the thousand dollars and must not conflict with any existing patented circuit.

6. The circuit shall be presented in the form of a sketch, which may be of the conventional type. Those which have merit in the opinion of the committee will be returned to the originator, so that he can construct a set from his own sketch. Upon completion of this, the committee shall make a test.

7. The unanimous decision of the engineers will be certified to the Boston American, who are authorized to present the check to the successful contestant.

8. This offer is open for a period of sixty days from the date of first publication.

ENTERTAIN AT WNAC TEA TODAY

MINERVA TRIO

Members of the WNAC Women's Club, which consists of those who listen to the daily talks from WNAC by Martha Lee of the Boston American, and Jean Sargent of WNAC, were entertained at a tea and reception this afternoon at the WNAC studios on Winter place by the Minerva Trio. Miss Lee and Miss Sargent were hostesses, and Miss Katherine Shepard, Martha Roach, Mrs. William Keith Stewart, Mrs. Frederick Cooke and Miss Mildred Cooke poured. Other receptions will be held soon for those members who were unable to come today.

On the Air Last Night

By THE LISTENER.

The first station I pulled in was WSAR at Fall River. They were having a "Battle of Music," between two rival orchestras, and I enjoyed it rather good. I also heard WTAR, another Fall River station, and on both I was interfered somewhat with WSAR. WSAR is on 254 meters, while WTAR is on 248.

The tuning on these short waves is rather ticklish, but it's well worth your while to fish around them occasionally, as there are some very fine programs to be found.

The Harvard Freshman Glee Club was a real treat last night from WNAC. The solos of Carleton Smith and Marion Lowd were especially pleasing. I like the sound of a flute over the radio because it seems to reproduce particularly well.

Probably the king pin program of the evening was that broadcast from Atlantic City by the National Electric Light Association.

On account of shooting here and there over my dials in an effort to see what was going on in the air, I missed the introduction of the speakers, but I had a lot of fun tuning this particular program in from first one station, then another, as it was broadcast from several stations simultaneously. I finally settled down to WJAR as he seemed the loudest.

Perry's "Ye Olde New England Choir" from WBZ was mighty good last night. If WBZ didn't fade so badly with me I should have been tempted to stay on his wave longer last night.

Thought I was going to hear Efrem Zimbalist, the violinist, last night on that Atlantic City program. But just as the announcer introduced him my set began to howl and started up in the neighborhood. Try as I might, I had trouble on every wave.

The tones of the violin came through now and then, just enough to tease me. Gee! wouldn't it be nice if we didn't get those funny noises! They seem to pop up right after a rainy spell.

Wouldn't consider last night as a very good evening for general reception. Static was too heavy and local noises too prevalent.

LONDON POLICE USE 25-METER WAVES

An interesting combination of wave lengths is that employed by the London police in their broadcast tie-up with radio in motor cars and motorcycles. The mobile station transmits on a 25-meter wave, while the Scotland Yard station replies on 750 meters.

Radio Queries

A vacuum tube will be given to the writer of the best letter about the Superflex, either criticism or praise.

Tried out the new two-tube Superflex last night, and without any set dials, got KDKA, WGY, WHAZ, WBZ, WNAC and WTAT on the loud speaker. Please note that on the base mount adapter, except the filament-polarity on socket No. 2 (A.F.), it is marked wrong. R.S.

Good work. We could not find any error as you suggest. The socket connection marked minus goes to the rheostat and thence to the negative connection of the other socket, which is in turn connected to the negative A battery.

The positive socket connection is direct to the A plus lead.

I have a Super which is built according to directions. Why is it I cannot get stations in daylight? I hear them faintly, but cannot bring them in. I am using 112½ volts on the plate. Can you tell me where the leads from the first audio transformer go? I. H.

Daylight reception is much inferior to night reception. The low volume may be the result of a poor audio amplifier. Connections of the first transformer are to the plate and filament of the second tube for primary, and grid and filament for secondary.

WOMAN AILING FOR A YEAR

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Happy Results

Newcastle, Pa. — "I was all run-down and everybody thought I was going into a decline. I had been ailing for a year with pains in my sides, could hardly stand on my feet. When I walked I felt as if something was tearing. I was not able to do any work and had a nurse most of the time. She spoke to me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I gave it a fair trial. Some women think one bottle should cure them, but I did not stop at that. I took more and got better and am able ever since to do my own housework. I keep what she told me, when I would complain of not feeling well, that my husband would say, 'Go to the doctor.' But now he will tell me to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's, and it has always helped me. I have had druggists tell me that they had something better, but they don't tell me that now for I take no other. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound now for five years. Any woman who cares to call or write, I will be glad to tell her how it helped me."—Mrs. MARY LIST SHERBAHN, 616 Newell Ave., Newcastle, Pa.

FIVE IN DAUGHERTY PROBE FACE ARREST

Luella Gear Divorces Byron Chandler

DR. FRANK CRANE ON UNIFORMS AND ACTUALITIES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IN civil life it is not as it is in military. In the army and navy, much the gross more splendid as you rise in rank, from second lieutenant to commander or admiral to the blaze of color and gold lace which comprises a full dress uniform of some Balkan army.

But in civil life the more elegant a dress, the more effeminate it is. The most gorgeous uniform is that worn by the footmen or flunkeys of the aristocracy.

Conspicuous consumption and ornament were at one time the prerogative of the professional class. The president of the railroad is not as much in evidence as the conductor.

In our country we are told that democracy will wither, as a plant, if we do not cultivate the ball with the crown.

But I think literature would be too gaudy and too full of color if every author, no matter how great his powers, were compelled to appear in public dressed in the habiliments of wealth, and if each fancy speller, known as a poet, were obliged to wear the distinguishing badge of his profession.

The author who is interested in the short story, the novel, the essay, the servant question, strongly to the exclusion of all else, is a bore.

Of course, there are exceptions, as there are to every general law, and I propose to make a few, with none protected from ridicule.

An author who writes about only 1 man or 1 woman. So I say, the style of man who from the noblest quality to the lowest vice. Dreiser lives with modesty, while forward-ness, boastfulness and the love of prominence suggest the shallow mind.

If there is a Dr. Frank Crane who controls all things good in the American Society of every one knows. He certainly more style than any one future He has made. The thunder roars, the waves roll upon the shore, lions prowl and parrots scream, for He who rules the mind and above all tops. We have to stand with all great men. His pleasure, as far as it is known, is that only the unrestrained and the natural.

Wisdom is Moody. Wisdom dresses in sensations and love to take the deepest dive.

The best style is the style of the genius in us that he is great.

KIRBY AND MELLOW WIN CROWNS IN AMATEURS

By RINGSIDE.

New England and California carried off the honors of the day in the finals of the national amateur championship at the Boston Arena.

Al Mello of Lowell furnished one of the big surprises of the tourney when he defeated John Hall of Cleveland, national champion in 1923, in the final of the 147 pound class.

Tom Kirby, Roxbury's great light heavyweight, did as expected when he annihilated Ted Murray in easy victory over Murray Gillis of New York in the final of the 175 pound class. Kirby was by far the most finished boxer to take part in the tourney.

Paul Ballard of Los Angeles [illegible] the first native [illegible] to [illegible] championship. He [illegible] Tom Bent of Cleveland [illegible] ing crown in the 112 lb. class when he sent Ray Fee of San Francisco down to defeat. This was a spirited contest with little to choose between the rival glove wielders.

Joe Salas of Los Angeles added to California's glory when he disposed of Harry Wallach of New York in the final of the 124 pound division. Wallach was a fast [illegible] in the contest, but he was [illegible] aggressive Californian.

In the 115-pound division Jack Williams of New York was awarded the decision over Joe Lagarde of Cornell. The [illegible] other who witnessed the [illegible] was of the opinion [illegible] won.

The grandfathers of most of the present generation of smokers knew PIPPINS. That doesn't prove anything until you stop to think that PIPPINS are now even more popular than in their day. Think of it—the fine Sumatra wrapper holds just clean long filler. No dust, no scraps. A fragrant aroma and absolute mildness. With such amazing value—there simply isn't any other cigar like PIPPINS at the price.

Putting the Sock in the Red Sox

BOSTON is back on the baseball map—for the first time in many, many moons.

The Red Sox are right up at the top and crowding the world champion Yankees out of first place.

Only half a game separates the two teams and before sunset today Lee Fohl's fighting team should be leading the proud procession.

It has been years since we have been able to speak about big league baseball above a whisper. Now we have a chance, so let's go to it—get out there to the ball orchard and cheer your head off—it's your team—our own Boston club.

Owner Bob Quinn is one of us. He's living right here permanently, and all his family. His entire organization belongs here.

The Red Sox team is no longer part of the New York outfit, Boston is not the ball farm for the Yankees.

Come on, give the boys your support. Go up and cheer them on, and if you can't cheer, stamp your feet, make a noise—go to it.

If your boss won't let you off call Mr. Quinn on the phone—Kenmore 0332—and tell him you're with him. He's a grand scout to talk to and he'll appreciate it.

But don't stop rooting—we want that 1924 pennant.

Some Families Are Never Ill

FORTUNATE are the children whose parents fully realize the seriousness of constipation. Hospital records prove that 75 per cent of all disease originates in bowel obstruction, or constipation. Among children are [illegible] of it; school children are hampered in their studies, grown people are made 25 per cent less efficient, elderly people's blood pressure increases 25 per cent. Realizing this Mrs. Carrie Moss of 1714 Church st., Lynchburg, Va., Mr. Louis C. Croll of 1569 Winton ave., Lakewood, Ohio, and innumerable others, give a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at the first sign of constipation, and have no sickness among their children.

Largest Selling Laxative

Every up-to-date family medicine chest should contain a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and palatable aromatics, a prescription written 30 years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell who practiced medicine 47 years. You can buy a bottle in any store where medicines are sold, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. We guarantee that if you will give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to a child or for a few nights to an adult it will relieve any case of constipation no matter how chronic or your money will be refunded.

10 Million Bottles a Year

Use it once and you will never again take cod-liver drugs in candy form, calomel or salts. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a vegetable laxative free from opiates and narcotics. It can be safely given to infants, yet it effectively moves the bowels of adults. It acts gently; does not cramp or gripe. Keep it in the house and use it for any indication of bowel obstruction such as constipation, biliousness, torpid liver, dyspepsia, pimples and like skin eruptions. Give it early and it will break up a fever or a cold overnight. A spoonful provesit.

If You Want to Try It Free Before Buying—Mail Syrup Pepsin, 557 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

Even the Dirtiest Pieces come clean With Only a Light Rubbing

With this new laundry soap soaking takes the place of rubbing

THOSE active children of yours just grind the dirt right into their playclothes! Can the dirt ever be rubbed out? That is what it used to mean to mothers—the dirt had to be rubbed out.

But today even the dirtiest pieces come clean with only a light rubbing. You are no longer tired out trying to keep the children in fresh clean playclothes. It is easy with Rinso to keep the children looking as you love to have them—easy for you even on washday to find more time to give to them.

For Rinso is an entirely new kind of laundry soap that saves you the hardest work of washday. With Rinso soaking takes the place of rubbing. Just soaking in the rich, cleansing Rinso suds gets out all the dirt.

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux. Made to do your family wash as perfectly as Lux does all fine things. Use it in your tubs, boiler, washing machine—it does the whole job. Get a package today—regular size or big new package—from your grocer. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Dissolves quickly and completely in hot water.
Makes rich soapy solution that soaks dirt out
Only a light rubbing now on specially grimy spots
Rinses out thoroughly
Leaves no soil nor any soap to turn yellow under the iron
Always use enough to get long lasting suds after the clothes have been put in.

Here are our fish prices and I want to say that these rates are prices found in several of Boston's largest retail fish markets. Tax Reduction Hope Brings Better Spirit to Help Lift Prices of Stocks

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

B. C. Forbes

Atlantic City, May 22.—A lot of people imagine that men who have attained notable success fall into easy going habits and are on the job only off and on. In few cases is this true. More success usually means more responsibilities, more work.

I had occasion to get up unusually early this morning and went downstairs before the hotel dining room had opened for breakfast. Who, do you think, were the first ones I spied?

The first was C. A. Coffin, the 79-year-old founder and upbuilder of the General Electric Company. "Fine! Fine," was his reply to my query about how he was feeling.

Apparently Mr. Coffin has the same idea as the 89-year-old Robert Dollar, namely, that he cannot very well figure on having more than twenty years left, it is up to him to move around quite more quickly than younger fellows, who probably hope for thirty or forty more years.

The next man I saw, a moment later, was Samuel Insull, another tremendous public utility enterprises in Chicago and other parts of the Middle West. Mr. Insull said he was feeling fit as a fiddle—and he looked it. Mr. Insull carries an heavy responsibilities as any man in Chicago. He has had the characteristic career of most of our present-day leaders in that he started at the bottom and worked his way up by intelligent and persistent application.

The next instant, I noticed Martin Insull, brother of Samuel and also a leading figure in utility enterprises. Martin Insull is one leader in the utility field who has thoroughly groomed for the honor of gaining the good will of the public.

All these three, together with several thousands more, are attending the record-breaking annual convention of the National Electric Light Association.

No topic has excited more interest than that of how to bring about and preserve the right kind of relations with customers and the public in general. There was a large turn-out to hear the reading of the essay which won the first prize in a contest on how to establish friendly relations between utility companies and the public. The prize-winner, Paul C. Rawson, of the Empire District Electric Company of Joplin, Mo., turned out to be a remarkably young man.

* * *

Here are some suggestions of importance culled from some 500 manuscripts, which will yield common sense suggestions to business men and employees in many different lines of business:

When the customer comes in with a complaint, greet and send him or her from pillar to post that irritates.

Classify all complaints.

Study the cause of complaints, eradicate them at their source.

Completeness of your reply is only one-half of courtesy; the manner of your reply is the other half.

Get employees to realize that the company is judged by their actions.

Bring home to the people that the benefits they receive result from enterprising and progressive management.

Select as executives men with vision as well as ability.

As a man is judged by the company he keeps, so is a company judged by the men it keeps.

If in trouble, tell the whole story—the correct story. Then keep on telling it, lest they forget. Advertise. Emphasize one specific point at a time.

When you sell stock you advertise, and service is the same way.

Be concise, be contentious, be consistent in your efforts to create good will. Spasmodic efforts will not succeed.

Whenever—if ever—service is interrupted, promptly tell the public the cause.

Post the public continuously on your earnings and your progress.

Don't make promises unless you are sure you can keep them.

Release cashiers from their cages and junk all grill work.

If a mistake is made, admit it—then sweat to rectify it. Have ideals as well as ideas.

Delegate sufficient authority in doing their routine work. This inspires incentive.

Claim less rather than more than you can deliver.

Welcome criticism and suggestions.

Publish a house organ.

Urge employees to be loyal to their organizations, your organization must be loyal to your community.

Keep ahead of the demand for service.

Be human, not mechanical.

Aim at inducing every employe and every household in your community to become a part owner of your company.

Organize a service and investigation bureau staffed by broad-minded men to handle all public complaints.

Send out no bill showing an abnormal increase or decrease without first verifying and then investigating the reasons.

Avoid political maneuverings.

Also paternalism.

Establish a home-serving bureau and teach all phases of electrical appliance uses.

Train local agents to become interested in their work, in their company and in their relations with their customers.

RAILROADS ARE GROUP MOST IN DEMAND

Hope of tax reduction action at Washington brought a better spirit into Wall street trading today to help lift the prices of stocks. Quotations worked upward all along the line, with the railroad group most in demand.

U. S. Rubber and Consolidated which have been under pressure lately, rallied a point each and there was a boom demand for oil shares most of which improved fractionally. Then Rubber again sold off, losing over a point.

Prices continued to move upward with the buying embracing the motors, sugars, western rails and a number of specialties.

Atlantic Refining assumed the leadership of the oil group with a rush of 4 points which was followed point or so were recorded by American Can, Stewart-Warner, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Maxwell A, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, American Sugar Refining, Northern Pacific and Norfolk & Western. Nickel Plate advanced 2 to 304, a new top record.

Buoyancy of ruling continued undiminished. Baldwin and other industrial leaders reaching new highs on the movement.

Reports of increased automobile output and sales contributed to the confident tone to the motor group, and gains of a point or so were scored by Studebaker, Chandler, Willys-Overland common and preferred, Hudson, Jordan, Moon and the leading accessory issues, including Stewart Warner and Stromberg.

Rubber shares continued to lose ground. U. S. Rubber 1st preferred falling back 1¼ points to a new 1924 low at 67¾, and the rise in "Nickel Plate" was accompanied by a decline of almost a point in preferred stock. Gulf motor opened at 3 per cent.

In trading on the Boston Stock Exchange American Telephone was a new top on the move at 124¾, up ¾. Both Mississippi Power issues sold up a point. Punta Alegre, Sugar, Pacific Mills and Quincy advanced a point or more.

Kelly-Springfield 8s Have 4-Point Decline

Substantial improvement in bond prices in New York trading followed an expanding inquiry for virtually all descriptions, embracing a wide variety of industrial and speculative railroad liens.

Liberty bonds responded to indications that action on the tax measure would be reported by way of the notable adjournment of congress early in June. The 4th and 4½s moved to a new high level for the year and the 3d 4½s duplicated their previous top price.

Among the medium-priced rail issues which advanced were International-Great Northern and "Katy" and St. Louis & Southwestern obligations.

Ajax Rubber 8s jumped 8 points in contrast to the downward trend of rubber company issues, the most conspicuous weak spots in this group being Kelly Springfield 8s which broke 4 points to a new 1924 low at 87.

What the Proposed Tax Bill Will Do to Incomes

Washington, May 22.—Under the agreement reached on the tax bill by the Senate and House conferees, the normal rate of taxes on incomes will be 2 per cent. on the first $4,000 of income, 4 per cent. on incomes from $4,000 to $8,000, and 6 per cent. on incomes above $8,000.

The surtax rates begin at 1 per cent. on incomes in excess of $10,000 and run up to 40 per cent. on incomes of more than $500,000.

The table below shows the amount of combined normal and surtaxes paid by a married man with no dependents as compared with the present law:

Income.	Present Law.	Conference Schedule.	Income.	Present Law.	Conference Schedule.
$3,000	$20	$7.50	$20,000	$1,720	$1,017.50
4,000	60	22.50	26,000	2,740	1,737.50
5,000	100	37.50	36,000	4,860	3,297.50
6,000	160	57.50	50,000	8,640	6,137.50
7,000	250	87.50	100,000	30,140	22,617.50
9,000	430	167.50	300,000	144,640	429,617.50
10,000	520	207.50	1,000,000	550,640	429,617.50
14,000	940	477.50

A flat exemption of $2,500 is allowed for all married men, irrespective of their incomes.

Incomes up to $10,000 derived from salaries or wages are classed as "earned incomes" on which an exemption of 25 per cent. is allowed.

DEADLIEST GAS STORED IN U. S. FOR INVADERS

MELLON TO ASK VETO OF TAX MEASURE

London, May 22 (I.N.S.).—The United States has large quantities of the most deadly gas in the world for defensive purposes, according to the Daily Express.

According to an interview with Professor Burns of London University the new gas is tasteless and odorless and can easily be distributed from airplanes. No one who breathes it will be aware he is inhaling death, but from six to twelve hours after the fumes are inhaled the victim will die in terrible agony.

"While the Washington conference was working out disarmament 200 of the best young chemists in the United States were engaged at Edgewood Arsenal, near Washington, in research upon the manufacture of the gas and now the United States has immense supplies of it," Professor Burns was quoted as saying.

"Major Victor Lefebure, one of the world's foremost authorities upon chemical warfare, said the gas being made now was more dangerous than that being turned out in Germany t the end of the war.

"It will be possible," said Major Lefebure, "for a nation which has the secret of a really deadly gas to put such a gas barrier around their country that for days no country could cross the frontier."

Washington, May 22.—Strong indications were given at the Treasury today that Secretary Mellon will recommend a veto of the tax bill by the President when the measure is submitted to the Treasury for consideration and review.

High officials declared the bill to be "very unsatisfactory" to Mr. Mellon and that the statement was made that he viewed as a "most unfortunate piece of legislation." He believes all of the provisions for reform of the tax system have been omitted and finds no justification for inclusion of such provisions as increased estate tax rates.

The Secretary also feels that the sections making income tax returns available to certain committees of Congress and opening to the public the proceedings of the Board of Tax review will have harmful effects on business, working to injure credit and divulge trade secrets to competitors.

LOOK FOR REDUCTION.

The estate tax rates as now carried by the bill are expected by Treasury experts to yield a record production of revenue, instead of an increase. They base this belief on inducement that large estates will be distributed by their owners in advance of death and the government, therefore, will obtain little if any tax on that part of the estate remaining intact.

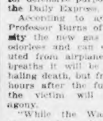
Because of the deficit that the Treasury foresees under the measure, the Secretary takes the position that the reduced income would require an entirely new fiscal program for the Treasury. The "readjusting" arrangements for the present outstanding debt would be necessary in his opinion, as well as increased sales of securities to take care of current requirements when receipts begin to come in under provisions of the bills.

Enactment of a law that would result in a Treasury deficit even for one year, is held by Mr. Mellon to be a reversal of a well-established national policy, certain to produce ill effects on future fiscal programs.

THREE PLAYLETS BY JUNIOR AUXILIARY

Three one act playlets were given in the Fine Arts Theatre by the Junior Auxiliary of the Convalescent Home, No. 17 Everett Avenue, Dorchester.

In "She Must Marry a Doctor," the following took part: Helen Elashoff, Frederick Elashoff, George Popell, Bertha Horowitz, Jill Horowitz and Anna Finn.



Helen Elashoff

The cast of "Not a Sou" was comprised Esther Cohen, George Popell, Gertrude Kaplan, Louis Goldkrand, Ida Fruthoff, Saide Weinstein, Rita Aronson and Eva Edelstein.

Those appearing in "Jean Marie" were Helen Michelson, Alexander Famstein and Max Stahl. Miss Elashoff is secretary of the Junior Auxiliary of the Fraunes Vernia of the Convalescent home and was presented with a bouquet during the performance for her excellent work.

TRIP TO EUROPE FOR MEDFORD BEAUTY

The "prettiest girl in Medford," to be chosen Friday night at the Elks' carnival in the Auditorium in Medford square, will enjoy an eight weeks' trip to Europe at the expense of the Medford Elks.

The three-day carnival will open tonight with Mayor Curley as the guest, and vaudeville acts, an orchestra and a midway as the features of the entertainment.

Frank G. Allen, president of the State Senate, will be the principal speaker at Friday night's assembly. After his address judges will pick the girl who will carry Medford's beauty title. The beauty prizes will be awarded Saturday evening.

SO. END FIRE DRIVES OUT THREE FAMILIES

Three families, one including a nineteen-year-old baby, were assisted from their home at No. 132 Hudson street, South End, when fire broke out in the junk shop of A. Bander, an adjoining building, early today.

The family of George Saber occupies the first floor of the apartment while on the second floor is the family of Tofas Saber. George Homsey and his family occupy the third floor.

The fire was confined to the Bander building, a three-story loft structure, the loss amounting to $8,000.

ADJOURNMENT BY JUNE 7 ASSURED

Washington, May 22 (I.N.S.).—After wandering in the wilderness of discord and dissension for nearly 8 months the turbulent sixty-eighth Congress emerged today into the sunny open spaces of comparative harmony and pointed toward certain adjournment by June 7.

The agreement on the tax bill and the promise that it will be signed by President Coolidge, has magically dispelled nine-tenths of the trouble in Washington. Congress can now go home and face the electorate "pointing with pride" to the session's accomplishments.

NOTED ADVENTURER GETS CONSULAR POST

New London, May 22.—Carl Ward, thirty-five, soldier of fortune, said to have been hero of Jack London's "Trail of Death," and one-time members of the staffs of Washington and Philadelphia newspapers, has been appointed to the United States consulate service. Ward is now stationed at Fort Trumbull here with the United States coast guard.

Group shipping can be worked out to reanimate New England harbors and thus restore to them the prestige they enjoyed when our clippers swept the seas, with brooms lashed to their topmasts as emblems of victory.

BOSTON, THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1924

BOSTON AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Boston coffee merchants, by intelligently combined efforts, increased the imports of coffee at Boston from 5,568,024 pounds to 65,884,784 pounds between 1920 and 1923, profiting themselves and the community.

Ship Boston Goods From Boston's Great Harbor in Boston Bottoms and Help Boost Boston

The steamer Paul Luckenbach sailed from Commonwealth Pier of Boston Harbor last week on a thirty-three-day trip to Seattle, Washington.

On board were 160 boxes and crates shipped by the Boston American to the Seattle Post Intelligencer, one of Mr. Hearst's great Pacific coast newspapers.

The shipment weighs 260,000 pounds—about 130 tons.

The shipment consists of a ten-cylinder four-color printing press of the design which produces the brilliant color and magazine sections of Mr. Hearst's Boston Sunday Advertiser. Paper runs through these presses at the rate of twenty miles an hour. Twenty thousand 24-page color magazine and comic sections are printed each hour.

The S. S. Luckenbach sails from here to New York, thence to Philadelphia and from there through the Gulf of Mexico and the Panama Canal to San Francisco. It then plows its way through the Pacific Ocean to Seattle, bounding three sides of the United States and covering a distance of 6,683 miles.

What does Mr. Hearst gain by shipping Boston goods from Boston's Harbor?

To ship by express would have cost him $21,000.

To ship by freight would have cost him $6,500

To ship by Boston boat from Boston Harbor will cost him one dollar per hundred pounds or $2,600.

New England merchants can ship goods from Boston Harbor to the Pacific coast for less money than it costs them to transport these goods from factory to dock—for two and a half times less than they can ship by freight—for 14 times less than they can ship by express.

It costs more to move a piano from store to a house in Boston than it costs to ship it from Boston to San Francisco.

Group shipping can be worked out to reanimate Boston's Harbor with the spirit of the days of the old clipper ships.

For more than a quarter of a century there has, from time to time, arisen a Moses in the wilderness of New England shipping to cry aloud that the trade practices of New England exporters is helping to build up the giant port of New York and to smother the efforts to build up the business of our own ports. His lamentations were not heeded and our ports continued to decline.

In 1920, some of these prophets formed the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Despite the name, it is not strictly a Boston institution. New Bedford, Providence, Portland and other New England ports are represented in it, and the interests of these ports are as carefully considered by it as are those of Boston.

They employed an expert traffic man. One of his first duties was to listen to complaints of coffee importers, who declared that they could not meet their competitors outside of the local territory, because they could not get coffee beans direct from Brazil. The freight rates from New York, where the raw coffee was landed, ate up profits, although Santos, Brazil, is nearer Boston than it is to New York. Boston had several ships every month from River Plate ports which passed right by Santos on their way here.

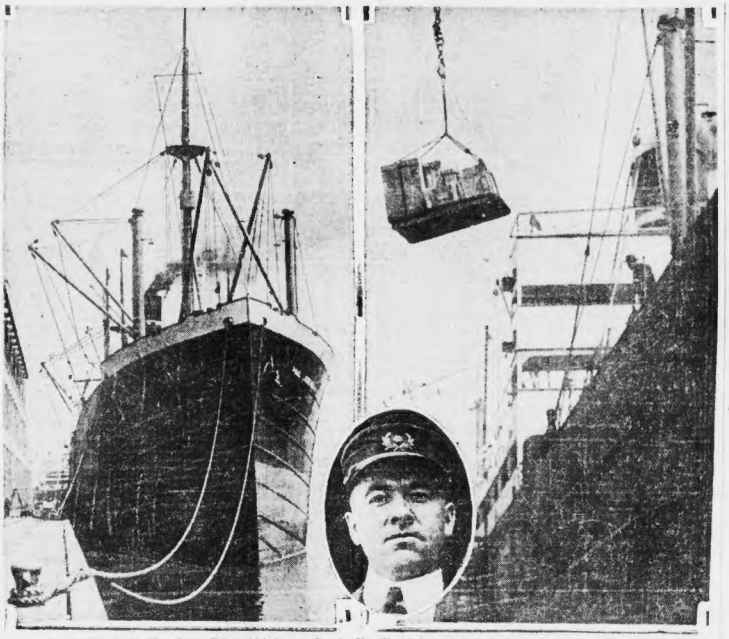
In 1920 there were 42,182 sacks of coffee landed in Boston direct from Brazil. That this much came in was due to heroic efforts on the part of certain importers who had to overcome almost insuperable difficulties to get it here.

The following year, the direct imports of coffee to Boston jumped to 249,802 bags. In 1922 the direct imports leaped again to 358,803 bags, and in 1923 to 499,127.

Boston coffee merchants are now able to compete with New York and Philadelphia competitors in the Western markets. Boston coffee is going to Chicago in great bulk. By their united effort Boston coffee merchants not only made a substantial saving on their old business, but reached out and acquired new business.

It is asserted that New England manufactures more cocoa and chocolate products than any other section of the country. It has the biggest confectionery manufactories and the biggest cocoa mills in this country, probably the biggest in the world. Yet the direct imports of cocoa beans to Boston is such a negligible quantity that it is listed under the heading of "Other Agricultural Products" by the Customs statisticians and nobody knows how much it is at the end of the year.

The first important rubber industries in the world were exclusively New England in origin and management. Goodyear of Connecticut was making some chemical experiments with caoutchouc, the East Indian name of the raw product of the rubber tree. It got the name rubber from the fact that until Goodyear's time the only use for it was to rub out pencil marks. Then Goodyear stumbled upon the secret of vulcanizing.



The Boston American takes the medicine which it prescribes for New England. The pictures reproduced above illustrate a monster color press, weighing 260,000 pounds, packed in 160 boxes and crates, going into the hold of the S. S. Paul Luckenbach in Boston Harbor for shipment to Seattle, Wash., where it will be used by the Post Intelligencer, a Hearst newspaper, to make a color supplement. That the medicine was good is shown by the fact that the shipment was made at a saving of $3,900 over rail freight rates. The cost of carting this press from the warehouse to the pier in Boston was $1,110. It will be as much or more in Seattle. Yet the Luckenbach line carries it 6,683 miles, clear around three sides of the whole United States for $2,600. The oval inset shows Captain John McNamara of the Paul Luckenbach.

New England is still one of the great rubber manufacturing centres of the country, despite the regrettable fact that the Middle Western folks have gobbled up most of the automobile tire business. We manufacture most of the rubber coats, shoes, medical and surgical supplies, hose, hard rubber products, and not a few bicycle and automobile tires.

Tens of thousands of tons of raw rubber are manufactured into a wide diversity of articles hereabouts, yet very little has been shipped direct to Boston in the past.

More than once Boston men have paid freight on rubber from New York, the same rubber having been taken from ships which called at Boston before going to New York.

Some time ago these manufacturers asked Manager Frank S. Davis of the Maritime Association if he could not help them to do what the coffee merchants had done. At that time about 3,000 tons of raw rubber was being landed at Boston.

Last year the local imports jumped to 13,539 tons. Watch them grow.

Today some of the biggest Middle Western rubber factors are in Boston to meet Manager Davis, and that energetic and enterprising booster for Boston is showing them how they can have their rubber landed at Boston, put on freight cars and landed in Akron, Ohio, or other Middle Western centres before the ship that brought it reaches New York.

It is pertinent, right here, to remember that Boston is nearer to Para, Brazil, to the Panama canal and to the Suez canal, whence the rubber-laden ships come, than is New York.

If this seems incredible to you in the case of Para and Cristobal, take a globe and a piece of thread and measure it. Don't take a map. Distances are only approximated by projections of a round surface on a flat piece of paper.

Thus ships from Para and the other ports of origin call at Boston before going to New York. Thus, in the past, shipments of rubber came to Boston, remained in the ship's hold, went on to New York and came back to Boston by freight.

The reverse side of the medal shows a most disheartening impression. While Boston, and by Boston in this instance we mean the Boston Customs District, which includes all New England ports except those on Long Island Sound, has long been the second port in the United States in the matter of imports, it has gradually sunk lower and lower in the scale of exports until it is now No. 26.

Little ports in Texas that the average New Englander never heard of excel all New England ports put together in export tonnage. Last year we were No. 22 in export tonnage. Before the war we were No. 7.

Boston shipping men declare that what has been done and is being done by importers in this territory can be done by exporters.

Single trades should co-operate, as in the case of the coffee importers, but that is not enough. There should be a great combination of every New England exporting house, in every trade, for the purpose of encouraging shipping to visit Boston.

If the cargo is offered the ships will come. That is an axiom in shipping. Trade may or may not follow the flag. It is open to argument. But no one has ever disputed that ships go where cargo originates in sufficient volume. The volume of New England exports runs into impressive figures. Unfortunately most of it is hauled out of New England in freight cars, to be shipped from New York or elsewhere.

This is especially true of textiles. This high class cargo is practically all sent from New York. The mill managers say that the buyers come to New York and they must maintain sales forces and warehouses in that city.

Sales forces, yes. But why warehouses? Why not sell in Boston or in New York if necessary and ship from the factory in New England?

Is there any doubt that, if all the mills co-operated, large quantities of this high class freight could not be shipped from Boston, with the present ship service?

There is vast warehousing space for rent in the Army Base pier in South Boston. The rent is less than in New York. Goods could be warehoused in Boston and shipped from Boston with a saving for the shipper and the buyer.

If a concerted effort were made by all the New England mills to centralize their export business around this port it would be a very short while before the foreign buyers would be coming here. A merchants' fair would bring them here.

There are now more than seventy ship services out of this port, foreign, intercoastal and coastwise. The seventy-odd steamship services touch at approximately 125 ports of destination and call.

There are fourteen ship services to Great Britain, five to Germany, five to Mediterranean ports, four to the Orient.

Ships from Boston sail through the Bosphorus to obscure ports far up in the Black Sea, to far away Australia and New Zealand, to South Africa, to Levantine ports. There is one line of ships, with fortnightly sailings, that circles the globe.

The ships are splendid new passenger ships, fly the American flag, and sail completely around the world, through both the Suez and Panama canals, in fourteen weeks. They stop at twenty-two ports. Passengers and freight can be taken on board at any one of these twenty-two for any other one. It is unique and deserves support.

There are fifty-five ship services out of Boston to foreign ports. There are many occasional ships from distant ports with space available for export shipments.

There are four big intercoastal lines with very frequent sailings to Pacific coast ports and Honolulu.

There are coastwise lines to Jacksonville, Charleston, Savannah, Norfolk, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Maine coast ports, the Maritime Provinces of Canada and Newfoundland.

There are services to the tropic islands of the West Indies and to Central American ports.

Oil tankers ply between Mexican oil ports and Boston.

Every day from four or five to fourteen or fifteen ships come in with cargo for New England importers, but there is tragedy in the fact that they go to Baltimore, Philadelphia or New York to secure their outward cargo.

Boston was, not many years ago, the chief port in the United States for the export of apples. Twenty years ago Boston shipped to Europe 838,815 barrels of apples. That year New York shipped 732,764. Boston led by 106,051 barrels. Last year Boston shipped 35,671 barrels; New York 433,070. In recent years apple shipments have been going forward in boxes more than in barrels. In 1923 New York shipped 1,526,265 boxes; Boston 93,671.

A single Boston apple exporter shipped 4757 carloads of apples in the season of 1923-24 through the ports of St. John, N. B., Halifax, Montreal, Norfolk, New York and Pacific ports. In the same season he shipped 267 carloads from Boston and ten from Portland.

He did it because other shippers of export freight did not co-operate with him to get the ships to come to Boston. This lack of co-operation made sailings from Boston irregular and uncertain. The unbalanced situation at the port of Boston, with its annual 3,000,000 tons of imports and less than 500,000 tons of exports, sends ships away from here to load, the owners of which would prefer to load them here, and could load them here if all New England exporters would pull together.

Another need of the port, and a crying need of New England manufacturers, is a direct line to the swiftly growing ports of the Gulf of Mexico. Vast quantities of freight go into these ports and the territories served by them, including the barge lines up the Mississippi river and its tributaries, from New England factories. But it all goes by rail, in slow, mixed trains, taking weeks to get there, side-tracked for many days at a time and many times, en route.

Several shipping lines have investigated this need, and have expressed a willingness to send frequent ships here if they could be assured of cargo. The need was one of the first things that was discovered by Manager Davis of the Maritime Association when he came to New England. But despite his best efforts he cannot secure the co-operation of shippers to bring it here.

The machinery for repairing the damage caused by decades of indifference and divergent effort on the part of shippers is here. From Eastport to Providence, from St. Albans to Hartford, scores of shippers by rail, by river and by sea have an agency for the solving of their transport troubles if they will avail themselves of it. Through it they can co-operate with other shippers to bring about the perfection of a shipping service that is already better than their patronage justifies.

It is this same Boston Maritime Association, the offspring of a world of labor and devotion on the part of Edward E. Blodgett, Captain Eugene E. O'Donnell, William C. Brewer, Frank B. McQuesten, Lewis R. Thurlow and other men who are widely known in shipping circles.

Use the association and the expert which it employs to help you, and in return for what you receive from it, give it your active, willing and patriotic co-operation to restore our dying ports to life.
